On multi-million dollar city sewage project

Whenever decision comes, it won't be easy

By GEORGE MALEK

Members of the Washington C.H. City Council will soon face the decision to continue to investigate or to abandon the proposed revamping of the city sewer system. As all Council members are aware, the decision will not be an easy one.

Should Council elect to proceed with the project, area residents will be committed to some $325,000 in engineering fees to obtain detailed plans for construction of new sewer lines and renovation of the present treatment plant.

If Council members later determine that the projects should be completed, Washington C.H. residents would have to pay an estimated $6 million over the next 25 years. A federal grant would provide $18 million for a total project cost which is estimated at $24 million.

In order to pay for the project, the anticipated sewage rate for Washington C.H. residents would have to be three times the current rate during the 25-year period.

As if these staggering figures were not enough to cause concern, some members of city council have questioned whether the estimates are accurate. They contend that the cost to residents would actually be much higher than the estimate given.

In spite of the fact that Council retained the services of C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., of Worthington, at a cost of $25,000 to prepare the estimates some of the same Council members are now disputing their calculations.

Obviously, some agreement on the accuracy of the estimates must be reached before an intelligent decision on the project can be made.

At least one area resident has taken it upon himself to become familiar with the project, and he is in a unique position to criticize the finding. That person is Don Conley of Gale Helms and Associates, Inc., a Washington C.H. engineering consulting firm.

Conley is quick to point out that he has not viewed the project outline "professionally." In order to do so would take several weeks of concentrated research. But he has investigated the firm's calculations much more closely than the average citizen.

His summation of the proposed project cost is that "if anything, it seems to be high." He said that the cost estimates for construction are well above the actual cost for construction at present. He notes that construction would not begin for approximately five years and inflation is difficult to project, but there seems to be a sufficient margin of safety in the firm's calculations.

All things considered, Conley feels the project can be constructed for the $24 million figure — or less. He added that the city's consulting engineers are following a common engineering procedure by estimating at the high end of the cost range. As a representative of Bird and Bull explained at last week's public meeting, he would rather see the actual cost be below the estimate than higher.

To determine test for sanity

Would-be assassin slated for hearing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 45-year-old mother charged with firing a shot at President Ford as he left a downtown hotel faces a hearing today to determine whether her sanity should be

President planning to continue travels

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, declaring that he will not cower before would-be assassins, plans to continue his campaign-style travels despite congressional fears and questions raised by a security breach one Republican called incredible.

Coffee Break . . .

SECRETARY OF State Ted W. Brown said that in reviewing the first year during which Ohio's new campaign finance law was in effect it is refreshing to note that no scandals and few significant violations have been found.

Of the 182 cases referred to the Ohio Elections Commission during its initial year, 176 cases involved failure to file on time... There was only one reported case of expenditures in excess of the limit and no cases involved fraud or other serious infractions of the law...

The commission is a bipartisan body of five members, four of whom are appointed by Brown upon the recommendation of the chairmen of the political parties... The four initial members chose the fifth member, who serves as chairman...

Brown said that 95 per cent of the cases to come before the commission were referred by either his office or the boards of elections...

This may sound like an excerpt from "Ripley's Believe It or Not," but Jess Crago had a galvanized barn door measuring 14-by-20 take off in a wind storm in early September and hasn't seen it since...

He even buzzed his farm on the Burnett-Perrill Road by airplane to see if he could locate the door from the air and maybe shoot it down if it was spotted still flying around... Anyway, if anyone has inherited a barn door and would like the barn which goes with it, call Jess at 335-0488 and negotiate...

Ford's second encounter in 17 days with a gun-wielding woman in California, this one punctuated by the crack of a pistol shot that missed, raised one central question:

How could it happen?

This time, the attempt on the President's life was made by a woman who managed to get within 40 feet of Ford carrying a .38-caliber pistol — despite the fact that the Secret Service had questioned her Sunday as a potential threat to his safety. Ford was not wearing a protective vest at the time the shot was fired.

Released Sunday not only from custody but also, apparently, from any surveillance, Sara Jane Moore, 45, was waiting when Ford emerged from the St. Francis Hotel late Monday.

San Francisco police, who also questioned her Sunday, had seized a pistol from her then, but she had a new one Monday, just purchased. According to the FBI, Mrs. Moore later said she was surprised that she had so much time for the attempt.

Like Lynette Alice Fromme, who had pointed a pistol at Ford from two feet away as he shook hands in Sacramento Sept. 5, Mrs. Moore was known to local authorities as a political extremist. The FBI said she had once been a paid informant for them.

Unlike Miss Fromme, Mrs. Moore fired. The President had spent less than two minutes all day before open, outdoor crowds. He was about to enter his bullet-proof limousine to head for the airport and Washington.

It became a high-speed ride, the President on the floor, shielded by his bodyguards. But that precaution, like the weapons searches at his indoor stops earlier in the day, did not come at the moment of peril.

The incident prompted congressional demands for an investigation — and one for a shakeup — of the Secret Service.

It also led members of Congress and rival presidential candidates to urge that the President curtail his public appearances and his handshaking forays was seized Monday after she fired a .38-caliber revolver at Ford. It was the second attempt on Ford's life in 17 days.

Police said Mrs. Moore, a plump, grey-haired woman, had been picked up by officers with a .44-caliber revolver in her hand Sunday and interrogated by the Secret Service because her name appeared on a "questionable list" of persons believed possible threats to the President. The gun was confiscated and she was released.

The President had been waving to thousands of cheering spectators outside the St. Francis Hotel when the shot rang out like a firecracker about 35 feet away.

Secret Service agents quickly pushed him into his bullet-proof limousine, where he crouched below window level as the motorcade raced off at top speed for the airport with sirens wailing.

Presidential adviser Donald Rumsfeld said later in Washington that Ford was not wearing a bullet proof vest. He first appeared in one during a public appearance in New Hampshire, a few days after Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme pulled a gun two feet from him in Sacramento, Calif., on Sept. 5. The gun did not fire.

U.S. Magistrate Owen Woodruff ordered Mrs. Moore to appear at the hearing today. She was arraigned Monday evening and ordered held on $500,000 bond.

Woodruff set today's hearing after U.S. Atty. James L. Browning asked

Mrs. Moore be given a mental examination "in consideration of the bizarre nature of the offense and in view of the response she made to agents."

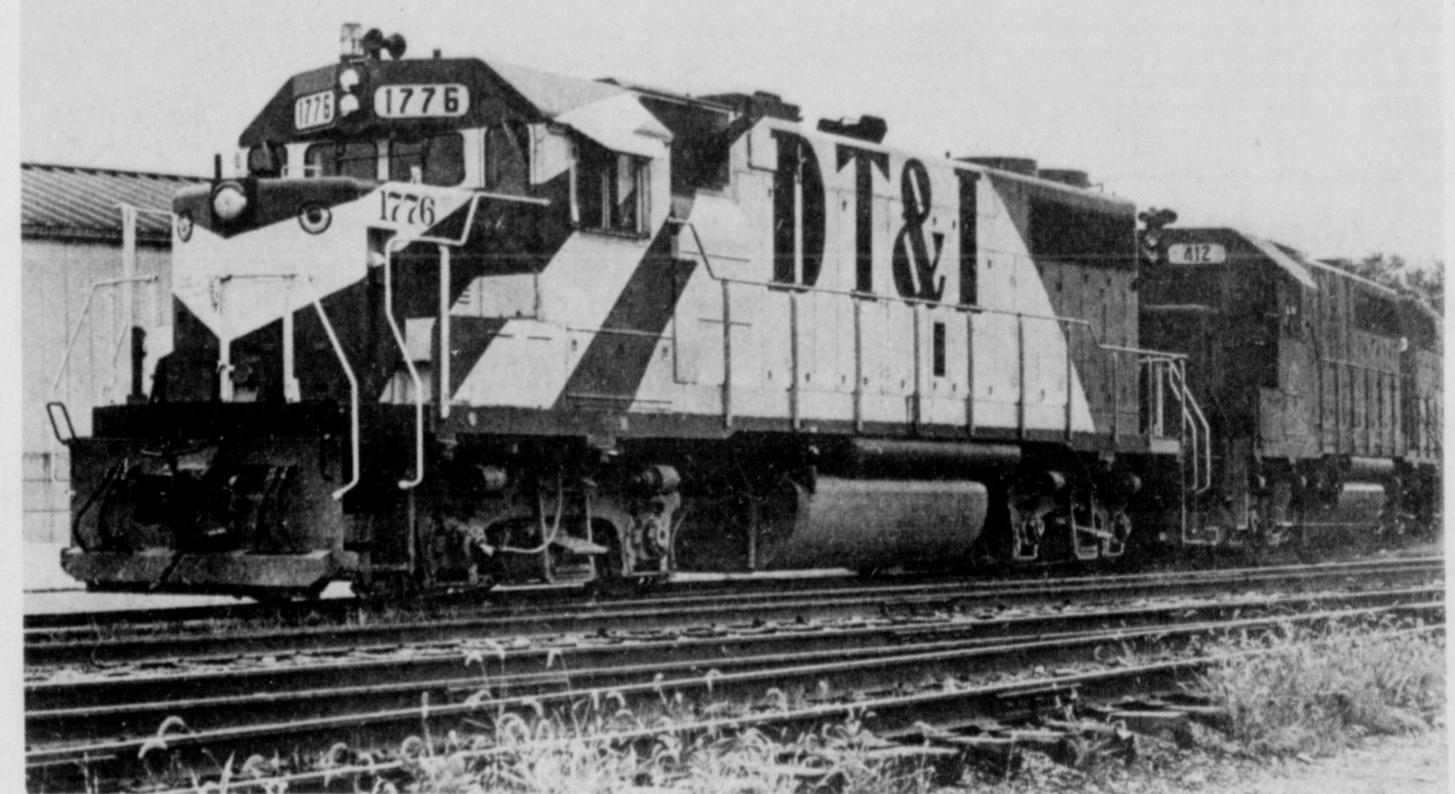

She faces a possible life sentence if convicted on the federal charge of trying to assassinate the President.

"She said that when the President came out she had a clear shot and a clear view and she was astounded she had so much time," said Patrolman William Taylor, who was present when Mrs. Moore was questioned in the hotel.

"She said she fired and realized she had aimed high," Taylor said. "She said she didn't get a chance for a second shot because she was immediately set upon. She said if she had a .44-caliber gun she would have hit him."

Police said Oliver Sipple, a 33-year-old ex-Marine from San Francisco, struck the chromed revolver just as it discharged, causing the bullet to ricochet and strike another spectator, John M. Ludwig. Ludwig, a 41-year-old San Francisco cab driver, was treated

Patty's words may haunt her

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patty Hearst's own words may haunt her if defense attorneys try to contend the newspaper heiress remained an unwilling hostage during her 19-month odyssey with the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army.

A bail hearing was scheduled in U.S. District Court here today, and Miss Hearst's attorneys say she will testify or submit an affidavit in a bid for freedom on bail.

Miss Hearst has been held without bail since last Friday, when it was revoked by a judge who cited her taped statements and revolutionary rhetoric.

At that time, U.S. Attorney James L. Browning revealed the government planned to use Miss Hearst's own words to prosecute bank robbery and weapons charges here. He also pointed out that a pistol was found in her purse and two carbines were found in the closet of the apartment where she was arrested Thursday with another federal fugitive.

In taped communiques, the 21-year-old Miss Hearst has admitted participating in a bank robbery and repeatedly denied she had been brainwashed into joining the SLA, which kidnapped her Feb. 4, 1974.

Authorities say Patty sprayed a Los Angeles sporting goods store with automatic weapons fire May 16, 1974 to help two SLA members escape arrest for shoplifting. She is accused of kidnapping an 18-year-old youth the same day.

Miss Hearst and Wendy Yoshimura, wanted on a 1972 guns and explosives charges, were captured at an apartment here last Thursday. SLA members Emily and Bill Harris were arrested earlier the same day outside their apartment, about 2½ miles away.

Both the Harrises and Miss Hearst face federal charges here and state charges in Los Angeles.

If convicted of bank robbery, Miss Hearst would face up to 35 years in prison. She and the Harrises also face federal firearms charges with maximum sentences of 10 years in prison and $10,000 fines.

Nineteen Los Angeles County charges have been filed against Miss Hearst and 18 against the Harrises. In addition, federal prosecutors say the trip probably also will be indicted on new charges stemming from weapons and explosives found in the two SLA apartments here.

Miss Yoshimura, 32, was arraigned Monday on four weapons and explosives charges. Her bail remained $250,000, and she was scheduled to enter a plea Oct. 6 in Alameda County Superior Court.

Stephen Soliah, 27, who reportedly rented the apartment where Miss Yoshimura and Miss Hearst were captured, has been charged with harboring a fugitive.

Bank robbery and murder may be linked with SLA

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Law enforcement officials are taking a new look at an April bank robbery-murder for possible links with some of the revolutionary comrades of Patricia Hearst.

Sources told The Associated Press that evidence seized in connection with the arrests of Miss Hearst and four of her associates in San Francisco last week was considered at a meeting Monday of three top officials in the state capital.

If prosecutors were to decide a link between the bank robbery and the SLA exists, it would raise the possibility that some members of the terrorist group might be charged with murder, the most serious accusation yet.

On April 21, three men and a woman — wearing ski masks — robbed a branch of the Crocker Bank in suburban Carmichael of $13,000.

One of the men fired his shotgun at a bank customer, 42-year-old Myrna Opsahl, who bled to death from her wound. Officials said there was "no reason at all" for the shooting.

The officials who met Monday, Sacramento FBI agent-in-charge Paul Young, Sacramento County Sheriff Duane Lowe and U.S. Atty. Duane Keyes, also discussed two sketches of suspects in the case.

There was no official comment on the continuing investigation of the Carmichael robbery. But the sources told The AP that the sketches closely resembled some of the individuals currently linked to the Symbionese Liberation Army, which kidnapped Miss Hearst on Feb. 4, 1974. They would not identify which individuals were being sought.

The sketches — of a white woman between 25 and 35 with brown hair and glasses and a white man in his 20s with blonde hair and a mustache — were released by the FBI in June. The drawings were based on descriptions given by the landlords who rented Sacramento garages where the stolen cars used in the robbery were hidden.

Police said in April that a fifth person may have been waiting outside the bank in a second getaway car.

An apparently unspent communiqué claiming responsibility for the robbery by the New World Liberation Front reportedly was found in one of the apartments searched after the arrests of Miss Hearst, William and Emily Harris, Wendy Yoshimura and Steve Soliah in San Francisco.

Authorities are known to be checking for links between the NWLF, SLA and a series of bombings in the San Francisco Bay area.

Storm slams into Florida's central panhandle

Thousands flee from rampaging hurricane Eloise

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Eloise slammed into Florida's central panhandle with raging surf and lashing rains today, then rushed inland, spawning tornadoes and carrying with it the threat of flooding.

With punishing winds up to 130 miles per hour, Eloise thundered ashore between Fort Walton Beach and Panama City before sunrise, wreaking havoc in both cities and in a 40-mile stretch between.

But as its vanguard crossed land, winds began to wane.

"With the hurricane over land, its strength should weaken rapidly," said Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami. "The major threat now is tornadoes, heavy thunderstorms and the flooding they can cause."

At 10 a.m. EDT, Eloise's still-dangerous winds had dropped to 100 m.p.h. The hurricane's center was located about 45 miles southwest of Dothan, Ala., near latitude 31.0 north and longitude 86.2 west.

Trees, power lines and billboards toppled before the onslaught, and the area was plunged into darkness in the gray dawn as power transformers exploded in brilliant showers of blue-green sparks.

Thousands of people along a 100-mile stretch of shoreline had fled in a last-minute rush to escape the oncoming fury of the storm in the darkness of early morning.

In Panama City, a truss manufacturing plant caught fire, from what officials said was either a leaking gas line or a dowed electrical circuit. Firemen tried to fight the blaze in screaming winds and rain.

No storm-related injuries were reported immediately, but communications were down in many areas and an accounting of the safety of residents would have to wait the hurricane's passage.

Given only a few brief hours of warning, residents of low-lying areas jammed highways leading inland, many of them fleeing in sleepwear covered by raincoats.

It wasn't until early this morning that county officials issued evacuation orders for people living along the coast, bays, bayous and other low areas.

Sheriff's deputies, police, firemen and others began going house-to-house, warning residents to flee to shelters on higher ground.

Part of the delay in issuing the warning was due to the rapidly shifting course and growing strength of Eloise, which already has left 42 persons dead on two Caribbean islands.

"This is a major storm," said Miles

Lawrence of the National Hurricane Center in Miami. "It's nothing to be taken lightly."

The center described Eloise as a "Category 3" storm on a scale of one to five, with the highest number representing the worst hurricanes on record. And it warned that Eloise could grow still stronger.

Early this morning, Eloise was about 150 miles south of Pensacola, Fla., on the far western edge of

Militancy marks teacher strikes

By The Associated Press

Mounting militancy continued to mark teacher strikes today, with teachers facing charges in Wilmington, Del., and Pawtucket and Woonsocket, R.I., while a Boston walkout entered its second day.

In Oklahoma City, federal authorities assured parents that students would be protected at Grant High School, where a white pupil was killed last week during court-ordered integration. Teachers and FBI agents searched student lockers Monday for weapons.

In Louisville, Ky. Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach dismissed charges against 92 persons arrested for defying a city anti-demonstration ban imposed during white protests against court-ordered busing. He said the ban was unconstitutional. Assault and resisting arrest charges against 600 persons remained in effect.

Boston school officials again kept schools open as the teacher strike entered its second day, but they declined to predict whether attendance would pick up. Negotiations continued into early morning today.

With only 500 of Boston's 4,900 teachers on the job Monday, attendance was put officially at 18.6 per cent of the 76,000 students enrolled this year.

The Boston strike over salaries, a

Gas mileage rises on new models

Datsun B-210 and the Subaru, for the most efficient use of fuel.

GM cars averaged 16.6 miles per gallon, up 8 per cent from 1975 models and 38 per cent from 1974. Ford Motor Co. cars averaged 17.3 miles per gallon, up 27.5 per cent from 1975 and 21.8 per cent from 1974.

Chrysler Corp. averaged 16.4 miles per gallon, up 5.5 per cent from 1975 and 19.7 per cent over 1974.

American Motors was alone in showing a decline in gas mileage, averaging 18.3 miles per gallon, down

3.5 per cent from 1975 but up 11.6 per cent over 1974.

The new model cars — foreign and domestic — averaged a theoretical 17.6 miles per gallon, compared to 15.6 miles to the gallon last year and 13.9 miles in 1974, the EPA announced. That means gas mileage improved 12.8 per cent from 1975 and 26.6 per cent from two years ago.

Most of the progress resulted from installation of catalytic converters on more models to reduce exhaust pollution, according to EPA Administrator Russell E. Train.

Ford, which showed the greatest improvement in gas mileage, is installing converters on all 1976 cars, compared to having converters on only 65 per cent of the 1975 cars.

The converters guarantee low emissions, permitting the companies to return car engines for greater fuel economy. GM had catalysts on all 1975 models, while Chrysler and AMC used the devices on some cars.

A Ford spokesman said the use of catalysts improved gas mileage. Smaller engines also were factors in better fuel mileage for the Ford Maverick and Ford Granada, the company said.

Refinements in engineering, new engines and introduction of smaller cars like the Chevette accounted for GM's increase in gas mileage, a spokesman said.

"This is convincing evidence that the free marketplace is working to meet both the nation's goals and the public's personal transportation — more efficiently and more effectively than could arbitrary legislation," said E. M. Estes, GM president.

The improvements brought the auto industry more than halfway toward President Ford's target of a 40 per cent increase in gas mileage by 1980.

The EPA emphasizes its test results do not guarantee the same fuel economy in on-the-road driving. Actual fuel economy varies, depending on each motorist's style of driving and condition of his or her car and engine.

Concerning the cost to consumers, Conley had little comment. He said he had not done a study of the amount of industrial use and therefore was not in a position to criticize Bird's cost estimate to homeowners. He did say that he had found no reason to doubt their projected cost to homeowners, and had never heard any adverse comment concerning the firm's reliability.

If the engineers studied the water use figures from the Ohio Water Service Co. and based the cost to homeowners on the amount of water flow (as Bird explained that he did at the public meeting), he would have no reason to doubt their figures, he added.

One criticism offered by Council member John E. Rhoads at the public meeting was the amount of population growth projected by Bird. Conley said he had seen no information in that area.

His comments concerning population growth for the area were limited. First, he stated that his own projection of the population for Washington C.H. by the year 2000. This figure is considerably lower than Bird's prediction outlined at the public meeting.

He said that although he sees definite growth of Union Township and surrounding land in the county, he did not see a tremendous increase in population within the corporation limit itself.

However, Conley added that acquisition of one major plant such as Westinghouse or General Motors could change the entire complexion of the city.

He noted that installation of such a sewer system would certainly make Washington C.H. more attractive to industrial and residential developers, but that progress is historically slow. It might be several years after the completion of the project before industry of developers became interested, he warned.

Another aspect of the upcoming decision is the extent to which the city will be obligated if it decides to continue investigating the sewer proposal by seeking detailed plans of the project.

Conley noted that a three-part process is normally used in connection with federal grants. First a preliminary plan of the project is outlined. This is the part already completed by the Worthington company.

During the second phase, a detailed set of plans is drawn up, detailed cost estimates are made, and bids are let.

The third phase is the actual construction.

Rhoads has stated that if Council enters into an agreement with Bird for phase two, the city will automatically be obligated to continue with the construction of the facilities. A representative of Bird had stated that city will not be obligated beyond the drawing of the detailed plans.

Conley said although he was not aware of all the legal aspects of the project, he found it unreasonable to think the city could become obligated to construction before it had a detailed cost estimate.

The preliminary plans involve rough estimates, he said. He went on to explain that this is all that is possible at this point. The purpose of formulating the detailed plans is to give the city a very accurate estimate of the project cost.

Conley concluded by saying that the city must do something to correct its sewage disposal system, and that whatever is done will greatly increase the present sewer rates.

He added that the combined sanitary-storm system is outdated, and Council's selection of a project which separates the system seems reasonable.

Whether the proposal presented by Bird is the best possible solution to the city's sewage problem is something Washington C.H. residents and their elected officials will have to determine in the near future.

Man claims he shot 30 persons

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The man accused of killing school integration planner Dr. Charles Glatt has told Dayton police he shot "25 to 30 blacks" over the past four years, authorities said in an affidavit.

Chief Grover O'Connor emphasized the remarks of Neal Long, 48, a service station attendant, have not been checked out. Long is being held in Montgomery County jail for the Sept. 19 slaying of Glatt.

Police used Long's statement in an affidavit for a warrant to search his apartment. O'Connor said he didn't know the affidavit would be released to the news media by the clerk's office.

According to an inventory list filed in Dayton Municipal Court, police recovered a 12-gauge shotgun, a .22 caliber pistol and a quantity of ammunition.

A hit-and-run gunman, firing a shotgun from an automobile, has killed seven blacks since 1972. Several others have been injured. Two were shot to death within 15 minutes of each other July 15.

move lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed lower again today in a continuation of the profit taking that set in Monday.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off about a point, and losers outnumbered gainers by about a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted little in the economic news to prompt selling.

But they said it appeared traders had been discouraged by the market's failure to extend last week's rally in activity Monday.

Today's early prices included Honeywell, down 7½ at 28½; Transamerica Corp., down 1½ at 7½; Pacific Gas & Electric, off ½ at 19½, and RCA 3½ lower at 16½.

Why did she do it?

The jackpot question about Patricia Hearst is: Why did she do it? Why did this daughter of privilege, kidnaped by members of the wildly radical Symbionese Liberation Army, reject her family and run with the SLA pack?

Many Americans feel a residual sympathy for Patty Hearst despite her alleged implication in crimes of violence and terror as a purported revolutionary. Many cling to the idea that this archetypal nice girl, whose most radical act before the kidnapping probably was her rejection of the debutante role, was somehow "brainwashed" by her captors. There is the lingering thought that all may not be set to rights, with Patty revealed at last as a victim who will in due time resume a useful or at least inconspicuous role in society.

This attitude ignores the fact that the young woman so unspectacularly arrested by the FBI must stand trial on very serious charges. "Brainwashed" or not, she bears the responsibility and must answer to these charges.

Still, one comes back to that intriguing mystery: What is it that brought about this striking change in her nature and outlook on society? In any case - that is, whether or not this change came through her own volition - she is a victim. The hows and whys of it are still unknown. What has been revealed merely whets curiosity about the elements that make up one of the most bizarre cases in American history.

A WORD EDGEWISE.... By John P. Roche

Imperiling our own interests

Over the years whenever I have written a column about Arab-Israeli relations, I have received a fair amount of quite nasty mail. Because of my strong support for Israel, readers have made all sorts of random accusations, ranging from my living off the Zionist slush-fund to changing my name from Rosenbloom (or, once, Rothschild!).

The first charge merits no printable reply. As far as the second is concerned, there is a problem: according to my father's baptismal certificate, Walter John Roche was the son of Nicholas Roach and Mary Roche. Maybe the Roachs lived down by the gashouse or on the wrong side of the tracks — in any event, Dad stuck with Roche. Needless to add, if my name had been Rothschild, rather than changing it, I would have tried to borrow money from my relatives.

My recent columns on the Kissinger interim settlement, suggesting that it was at best a mirage, at worst a fraud, have triggered a different response from concerned readers. They haven't called me nasty names; they have asked why, if all the leading spokesmen for American Judaism have given their support, I should try to throw a monkeywrench into the works? Or, alternatively, why, if the Israeli government has agreed, I should substitute my judgment for that of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin?

This can be answered on two levels. First of all, my concern is American national interest. Whatever Rabin or the Knesset may think, whether they believe it the greatest diplomatic coup since the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, in no way detracts from my conviction that 1) the survival of Israel is in the American national interest, and 2) the Kissinger deal imperils our national interest in Israeli survival.

My viewpoint is not based on an opinion poll of American Jews, or anyone else. But there is another level of analysis with far more disturbing implications for both Americans and Israelis. Here the key question is brutal, but must be asked: To what extent has the Israeli government been blackmailed by the United States into accepting an arrangement which it would otherwise have rejected? To put it another way, how does the present interim agreement differ from the one rejected overwhelmingly by Jerusalem last spring? The immediate reply is the 200 Americans assigned to the early warning system in Sinai, an answer which has touched off congressional debate on whether we are taking our first step into another quagmire, a new "Vietnam."

This dispute strikes me as wholly diversionary. The inclusion of 200 Americans in the package is essentially cosmetic, a poly designed to give the Israelis a basis for distinguishing between Kissinger-Mark I, which they turned down six months ago, and Kissinger-Mark II, which they have accepted. The fundamental question, neatly avoided by loose chatter about Vietnam, is whether the long-term Kissinger scenario for a Middle Eastern "Peace" — in which this is the first installment — will leave Israel incapable of successful self-defense.

Moreover, there has been a good deal of conversation about how unhappy Moscow is about the new American triumph, but curiously the four Communist members of the Israeli Knesset did not oppose the interim accord. And President Sadat, who is a big talker, told the Lebanese paper "Al-Hawadith" (generally considered the Beirut voice of Cairo) on Aug. 15th that the Soviets had consistently urged him to "talk to the Americans." From the Russian viewpoint, it would obviously be ideal to have the United States achieve what the USSR and the Arabs have so far aborted: eliminate the Israeli Defense Force's capacity, given adequate military equipment, to maintain the integrity of the Jewish state.

Of course, if the U.S. promised as part of the settlement to guarantee Israel's survival, this would provide some weight at the other end of the saw. (Admiral Elmo Zumwalt, retired U.S. Chief of Naval Operations, has questioned on purely military grounds how much weight we could in fact throw into the balance, short of a nuclear confrontation — but that is another story.) However, from recent leaks it has become apparent that the American pledge to support Israel in the event of trouble has been formulated in the conditional-subjunctive tense. In effect, we have said that if Congress approves, and we have the stuff, and the weather is right, we will do our best. Thanks a lot — but this is no way to define our national interest. It may be adequate for Rabin and the American Jewish community, but I think it is the route to tragedy.

Taft and solons seek train service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, and three Ohio congressmen have asked Amtrak Corp. to begin day train service to Canton, Crestline and Lima.

Reps. John M. Ashbrook, Tennyson Guyer and Ralph S. Regula, all Ohio Republicans, joined Taft in a letter to Amtrak president Paul Reistrup requesting the service.

Taft noted that he tried to get day train service established on the route last March but Roger Lewis, then-Amtrak president, said Amtrak did not have enough sufficient passenger cars.

The joint letter noted that Amtrak is receiving the first of 700 new cars.

"With the new Amcars arriving, there is a pool of additional equipment," the legislators said. "We strongly believe that one of the best possible uses for this equipment would be on a daylight run ..."

Dear Abby

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Abby scored for Ann Landers' slip

DEAR ABY: I read in your column where someone said gentlemen used to prefer blondes, but today it seems that gentlemen prefer gentlemen. And you said, "No, I think most gentlemen still prefer blondes, brunettes and redheads."

Abby, I am greatly disappointed in you. Don't you realize that you have a lot of black readers who don't happen to be blondes, redheads, or brunettes?

LOLLIE IN TULSA

DEAR LOLLINE: The letter to which you refer appeared in Ann Landers' column, not mine.

And Lollie, dear, please don't be too hard on my twin sister because I have seen black women with beautiful red and even blonde hair. Of course, it's not their natural color, but then neither is mine.

DEAR ABBY: I hear so much criticism of young couples who live together first and then have lovely church weddings, I hope you'll be fair and let an opposing point of view be heard:

After living together for five years, Bill and I were married last June. We had 65 guests at a lovely church wedding, followed by a garden reception in the back yard of our home. (We paid for everything ourselves.)

We both wore white to symbolize the purity of our first and only marriage. We waited for five years to be sure that what God had joined together no man could set asunder.

Standing that alter in the presence of God, our families and friends was a spiritual experience we shall cherish all our lives as the ultimate commitment.

Everyone present said it was the most meaningful and beautiful wedding they had ever attended.

HAPPILY WED

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that I am sure is shared by thousands. In fact, I have been on both sides recently.

In the case of overnight guests, who should make the first suggestion that they retire for the night? The host or the other couple?

A MATTER OF ETIQUETTE

DEAR MATTER: It's more a matter of common sense than etiquette. Whether you are the host or the guest, when you're ready to retire, simply say, "Let's call it a night, shall we?"

We've revived this recipe from the 1960s because it's usually popular:

2 pounds ground pork
1 $\frac{1}{2}$  cups chopped onion
20-ounce can crushed
pineapple, undrained
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup cider vinegar
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons dry mustard
 $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon ground ginger
 $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon ground cloves
2 tablespoons soy sauce
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons flour
Pastry for a 2-crust 10-inch pie

In a large skillet brown pork and onion, drain off excess drippings. Stir in the remaining ingredients for filling except green pepper and flour; simmer until no liquid is visible — 30 minutes; stir in green pepper and flour. Turn into pastry-lined 10-inch pie plate; adjust top crust and make numerous vents; trim, flute and seal edge. Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until lightly browned — 25 to 35 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

Uncooked chicken keeps well in the coldest part of the refrigerator for up to two days. To store longer, freeze the chicken, the National Broiler Council suggests.

Weight Watchers honor member

Kate Trefz of Rt. 1, Greenfield, Ohio is a 'new' woman. That's the way she likes it now and she hopes she will never go back to being the "other Kate" she used to be.

Though she has been overweight chters meeting at Grace Methodist in Washington C.H. she found even simple chores exhausting. Climbing stairs left her weak. High blood pressure and other physical problems brought warnings from her doctor, but Kate seemed unable to master the self-discipline every successful dieter must maintain.

Kate decided to join a local Weight Watchers class, without much hope, but determined to give it a try. The weekly weigh-in and the fellow-members sharing the same experiences, together with the Weight Watchers eating program proved to be the winning combination. Besides that, her husband Rodney and the rest of the family gave her encouragement and moral support.

In 16 months Kate had lost 101 pounds and was below her Weight Watchers goal! Such a change does not go unnoticed and friends who hadn't seen her for awhile were doing "double-takes" when they met her.

Weight Watchers Cincinnati Area Director Adrienne Levine noticed too and sent Kate the following telegram: "Congratulations on your outstanding achievement on the Weight Watchers program. Everyone associated with this organization is proud of you. I am sure your fellow classmates as well as your leader Margie Soldan are as thrilled for you as we. Your great accomplishment will be a marvelous incentive for all our members. We wish you success as you successfully maintain the goal you worked so hard to achieve. Sincerely, Adrienne Levine."

Kate's wonderful weight loss has also

"Lifetime Membership doesn't mean a lifetime of dieting," Kate explained, "It just means that I have a responsibility to get weighed-in at least once a month and meet with people who understand when the going gets rough. I guess you could say my goal now is a lifetime of slimness."

Dried beans are basic diet in many lands

By TOM HOGUE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Dried beans were among the first foods cultivated by man and today, several thousand years later, they are far by the most popular of the dried legumes sold in the United States.

Americans produce dried beans in a variety of forms, from Boston baked to the red beans and rice popular in the Deep South. We produce all sorts of beans in all sorts of colors; black eyes, white and red kidney and Mexican pinks, to name a few.

Natives of both North and South America have been growing lima, pinto and navy beans for centuries, not to mention the black beans so popular in Brazil.

The people of New England have immortalized the lowly white bean by baking it in a pot, seasoned with sugar and molasses, a seasoning that the cooks of the American Southwest scorn, preferring to dress up their beans with tomatoes, garlic and chilies the way they do it in Mexico.

Mexicans have been cooking dried beans for as long as they can remember, and have won fame with their frijoles refritos or refried beans. To make it you gently fry red or white kidney beans in bacon fat, then gently mash and fry again after spicing them up with salt, pepper and chili powder.

Half a world away the Chinese have been performing wonders with the versatile soybean for more than 2,000 years. They transform them into that salty concentrate known as soy sauce, or ferment them into a paste or use the curd derived from a liquid called soy milk. The Chinese cuisine also features preserved black beans and a salty paste made from yellow beans.

In West Africa, the dried bean has been described as the "poor man's meat." The dwellers on the dark continent devour vast amounts of white, brown and red beans either alone or mixed with yams. They also used dried beans mashed up to thicken gravies or turn the mix into doughs to be refried or steamed.

For best results, chicken should be packaged for home freezing in moisture-vapor-resistant wrapping or bags or a suitable rigid container. Freeze chicken at zero degrees Fahrenheit and hold at that temperature. Uncooked poultry maintains flavor and texture longer in frozen storage than cooked chicken. According to the National Broiler Council, whole, uncooked chicken, properly frozen at home and stored, may be kept in the freezer for 4 to 6 months.

It is hereby declared to be a proper public purpose and the public policy of this state to encourage and assist in the construction of new industrial plants, the utilization of existing unused industrial plants, the replacement, modernization and addition of capital equipment in existing industrial plants, the retention of such plants by the state, the promotion of critical need, and thereby determined that the operation of this section and laws enacted and regulations adopted pursuant to this section will directly and indirectly encourage and assist the aforesaid purposes and create or preserve jobs, enhance employment opportunities, alleviate unemployment and improve the economic welfare, health and safety of the people of the state.

As used in this section "new industrial plant or plants" means: (A) new buildings, structures or facilities, and new expansions of or additions to existing buildings, structures or facilities which are used in manufacturing, fabricating, assembling, refining, converting or processing goods, products or materials, whether or not further manufacture, fabrication, assembly, refining conversion processing is required before use or consumption, or are used as terminal facilities for shipment of goods, products or materials other than storage and the construction which commenced after February 1, 1975, and prior to January 1, 1981; or (B) existing buildings, structures or facilities which were substantially unused for any purpose stated in clause (A) of this paragraph for a period of at least two years prior to February 1, 1975, and in which operations for one or more of such purposes are commenced thereafter and prior to January 1, 1981; and (C) the operation of such new industrial plant or plants creates additional jobs within the state.

As used in this section "existing industrial plant or plants" means buildings, structures or facilities which are used for one or more of the purposes stated in clause (A) of the preceding paragraph but which do not qualify as new industrial plants under the preceding paragraph. Laws shall be passed to provide for treating a new industrial plant as an existing industrial plant under this section after termination of the tax exemptions and exclusions applicable if as a new industrial plant.

As used in this section "area of critical need" means one or more areas within a municipal corporation determined by the board herein created to have critical need for new industrial plant development to create jobs or revitalize such area. Such determinations of the board shall be based upon relevant criteria including one or more of the following: the level of unemployment, the concentration of low and moderate income persons and families and those receiving public assistance in, or within reasonable and economic commuting distance from, the area, the degree of physical deterioration or functional obsolescence of buildings and structures or the need for redevelopment in the area.

With respect to each new industrial plant there shall be exempted and excluded for the period of exemption from taxation from the base or measure of corporate franchise tax imposed by the state, the income and the value of capital, surplus, undivided profits and reserves, net worth, or any other base or measure for such taxes, of the business entity operating such new industrial plant allocable, apportionable or attributable to this state to the extent such are allocable, apportionable or attributable to such new industrial plant; from income taxes imposed by the state, the income of the new industrial plant; from all ad valorem property taxes, the tangible personal property which is used or held for use at such plant or produced at such plant while held by the operator of such plant; and one-half the assessed value of the improvements on land comprising a new industrial plant if located within an area of critical need. The exemption of tangible personal property from ad valorem taxes shall not be applicable to so much of the assessed value of such plant as equals the assessed value of the 1975 tax year of any tangible personal property which was located at the corporate part of such business structure and facility and was required to be listed and assessed for ad valorem taxes for the 1975 tax year. The exemption of improvements on land from ad valorem taxes shall not be applicable to so much of the assessed value of such improvements comprising a new industrial plant as equals the assessed value of improvements on land for the 1975 tax year.

The applicable period of exemption and exclusion shall begin with the tax year next following commencement of operations of the new industrial plant and: (A) with respect to such new industrial plants located within an area of critical need shall be for a period of thirty years; (B) with respect to new industrial plants located outside an area of critical need shall be for a period of fifteen years. Nothing in this section affects laws, provisions of charters of municipal corporations, ordinances, resolutions, or regulations pertaining to building, zoning, or land use restrictions, conditions or requirements presently in effect or hereafter adopted.

If industrial operations at a new industrial plant are substantially suspended or terminated and are not resumed or recommenced within one year from the date of such suspension or termination of operations, the tax exemptions and exclusions previously granted with respect to such new industrial plant pursuant to this section shall terminate upon expiration of such one year period. In such event, the tax exemptions and exclusions so terminated may, upon application to the board herein created be reinstated, subject to the same conditions, by the board for the remainder of the original applicable period of exemption and exclusion for such new industrial plant if substantial industrial operations resume or are re-commenced therein. Laws shall be passed to provide, in the event of such termination or reinstatement of such tax exemptions and exclusions, for the proration thereof for that portion of the tax year in which such termination or reinstatement occurs.

Laws shall be passed providing for the transfer, continuation and reinstatement of tax exemptions and exclusions with respect to new industrial plants granted pursuant to this section in the event of a sale, lease or other transfer of such plant from one business entity to another business entity and the original applicable period of exemption and exclusions shall not be extended thereby.

To the extent that the true value of new capital equipment of a taxpayer placed in or at an existing industrial plant and required to be listed and assessed for ad valorem property taxes for the first time for the 1975 tax year or for the first time in any tax year thereafter in any taxing district of the state, together with the true value of all other capital equipment of the same taxpayer listed and assessed for tax in such year in such district, exceeds the true value of all capital equipment of such taxpayer listed and assessed for such taxes in such district for the then preceding tax year, the taxpayer shall be entitled to have such new capital equipment, but only to the extent it represents such increase, listed and assessed in such first tax year and each tax year thereafter at a tax value which is one-half the tax value at which such new capital equipment otherwise would be listed and assessed for ad valorem taxes for each such tax year, such reduced rate of assessment being herein called the capital incentive rate. Provided, however, if the true value of all capital equipment, including all new capital equipment, of the taxpayer throughout the state has not increased for the then current tax year over the true value of all capital equipment of the same taxpayer listed and assessed for the then preceding tax year, then the taxpayer shall not be entitled to have the capital incentive rate applied in the current tax year or any subsequent tax year to any new capital equipment first required to be listed and assessed in any taxing district in such current year. Provided, further, if the net increase of the true value of all capital equipment of the taxpayer throughout the state over the preceding tax year is less than the sum of the increases over the preceding tax year in all taxing districts in which such increases occurred, the amount of the true value of such new capital equipment first required to be listed and assessed for the current tax year in each taxing district eligible for the capital incentive rate in the current tax year and each subsequent tax year shall be only that portion thereof as results from multiplying the amount of increase in such district by a fraction the numerator of which is such net increase throughout the state and the denominator of which is the sum of the increases in the taxing districts in which such increases occurred. For purposes of the franchise tax levied by the state for the tax year 1975 and each tax year thereafter, an amount equal to the tax value determined above of new capital equipment which is entitled to be listed and assessed at the capital incentive rate shall not be considered an asset of a taxpayer for purposes of determining shares of stock or for purposes of any property factor used in allocating or apportioning to this state income or the value of capital, surplus, undivided profits and reserves or net worth.

For purposes of the means the preceding paragraph of the proposed constitutional amendment, other than inventory, used in or at an existing industrial plant, and "new capital equipment" means capital equipment, not previously used, acquired by the taxpayer after May 15, 1975; "taxpayer" means the entity which used the capital equipment in or at an existing industrial plant, and "true value" means the true value as determined by or pursuant to law for ad valorem tax purposes.

Laws shall be passed and regulations adopted hereunder to define and prescribe further new industrial plants, existing industrial plants, areas of critical need, commencement of construction, commencement of operations, income of the new industrial plant, and provide other definitions, make other provisions and establish procedures necessary for the purposes of this section.

There is hereby created, as an agency of the state, a board to be known as the Ohio Industrial Incentives Board, to consist of nine members, including a chairman, no more than four of whom shall be members of the governor's political advisory and consent of the senate, and two members, who may but need not be members of the general assembly and each of whom shall be a member of a different political party than the other, shall be appointed by the general assembly. Three members of the board first appointed shall continue in office for terms first expiring on January 1, 1979, three members of the board first appointed shall continue in office for terms first expiring on January 1, 1982, and three members of the board first appointed shall continue in office for terms first expiring on January 1, 1985. The term of each member first appointed shall be designated by the governor at the time of appointment. The successor of each such member shall be appointed for a term of nine years, except that any person appointed to fill a vacancy shall be appointed to serve only for the unexpired term. A member of the board shall be eligible for reappointment. The compensation of the chairman and other members of the board shall be determined by law. The general assembly shall appropriate money to provide for the cost of transportation and for interurban rail passenger transportation between major urban centers.

The proceeds from the sale of such bonds and notes, except accrued interest, premium, and proceeds to refund outstanding bonds or notes, shall be paid into the state treasury, as hereinbefore provided, to the credit of a fund designated highway improvement fund or to the credit of a fund designated transportation improvement fund to be applied by direct payment, repayment, or grant or loans to costs or capital improvements pursuant to laws providing for the appropriation of money from such improvement funds.

Not more than one hundred fifty-five million dollars of the aggregate proceeds from the sale of such bonds and notes shall be paid to the transportation improvement fund for costs of capital improvements for transportation purposes and the balance of such proceeds, if any, shall be paid to the highway improvement fund for costs of capital improvements for highway purposes. From the transportation improvement fund not more than eighty-five million dollars may be appropriated for urban public transportation, not more than fifty-five million dollars may be appropriated for interurban rail passenger transportation between major urban centers, not more than ten million dollars may be appropriated for airports and aviation safety, and not more than five million dollars may be appropriated for bikeways. From the highway improvement fund not more than four hundred million dollars shall be appropriated to counties, municipal corporations, and townships for highway purposes as provided for in the Revised Code for the twelve-month period ending June 30, 1974, and the denominator of which is the total amount distributed to each participating subdivision under section 505.01 of the Revised Code for the twelve-month period ending June 30, 1974, and the numerator of which is the total amount distributed to all participating subdivisions under such section for the same period. In addition, not more than $100,000,000 may be appropriated from the highway improvement fund to municipal corporations for capital improvements of streets, including without limitation resurfacing and street lighting, in inner city and neighborhood areas having a high incidence of unemployment, low income families, and deteriorating housing. The balance of the moneys in the highway improvement fund shall be appropriated for highway purposes to the department of transportation.

No money authorized under this section shall be expended for the construction, rehabilitation, alteration, conversion, extension, demolition, or repair of buildings, structures, highways, roads, streets, bridges, or facilities or other changes or improvements to real property, including facilities providing utility services, unless there is in effect and applicable to such project, a law, regulation, rule, executive order, or contract providing for affirmative action intended to ensure that applicants are employed, and that employees are treated during employment, in such work on the project without regard to their race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry or sex.

The tax exemptions, exclusions and limitations provided for by this section are in addition to any other tax exemptions, exclusions and limitations provided for by or pursuant to this constitution or law.

Nothing authorized by this section shall be deemed to be prohibited by any other provision of this constitution. The classifications provided for in this section, and pursuant to laws enacted and regulations adopted under and consistent with this section are hereby determined to be reasonable and necessary to achieve the vital public purposes of this section. Laws enacted pursuant to this section shall not be subject to referendum and, unless otherwise provided therein, shall go into immediate effect.

ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Businesses which provided thousands of jobs for Ohioans in the past have been driven away from Ohio by high business taxes. Ohio now ranks fourth in the nation in taxes on industry. Unless we reverse that trend, more jobs will be lost as industry moves out.

This proposed amendment, if approved by the people, will say to industry, "We want you here in Ohio. We want jobs for our people."

But this proposal goes much farther. It is a common sense approach to bringing jobs to depressed areas such as inner cities and poor rural areas.

Here's how it works:

1. Manufacturing industries bringing new jobs into Ohio will be granted a 15-year moratorium on the state corporate franchise tax and the state tangible personal property tax.

2. Manufacturing industries bringing new jobs in depressed areas will receive stronger incentives. They also will be granted a moratorium on the tangible personal property and franchise taxes. In addition, they will be able to exempt half the improved value of their real estate from taxation. And in depressed areas, these incentives will run for 30 years instead of 15 years.

Other programs have failed. It is time to try people. Some existing Ohio manufacturing industries need desperately to modernize in order to keep working people the job. To encourage them, the amendment will allow them to exempt half the increase in value of their machinery each year from the tangible personal property tax and the corporate franchise tax.

Local government will lose no money as a result of this amendment. In fact, with more people working instead of depending on welfare and unemployment compensation, the tax base in Ohio for schools and other government functions will be stronger than ever.

This approach is nothing new. It is the same as the method being used by southern states as they systematically rob Ohio of industry and jobs. It is time for Ohio to stop this exodus of industry. This amendment will accomplish that goal.

Passage of Issue 2 will RAISE YOUR TAXES. ISSUE 2 WILL RAISE YOUR PROPERTY TAXES.

The issue proposes to exclude any new, expanding or modernizing manufacturing industry from all ad valorem property taxes, and one-half the tax on the 1975 tax year of any tangible personal property which was located at the corporate part of such business structure and facility and was required to be listed and assessed for ad valorem taxes for the 1975 tax year. The exemption of improvements on land from ad valorem taxes shall not be applicable to so much of the assessed value of such improvements comprising a new industrial plant as equals the assessed value of improvements on land for the 1975 tax year.

Other programs have failed. It is time to try people. Some existing Ohio manufacturing industries need desperately to modernize in order to keep working people the job. ## Sander given death penalty

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — Robert Paul Sander, urging the judge to "carry on" with the sentencing, has been sentenced to death in the gas chamber for five sniper slayings at a Smith River motel.

The 23-year-old former Cincinnati department store employee took the sentence sitting down Monday, refusing the judge's order to stand in the Shasta County Superior Court.

Sander, who had remained silent during his trial and when the verdicts were returned, spoke for the first time when Judge Frank Petersen asked him to stand.

"No, I will not," said the bearded defendant.

Petersen then asked if there was a legal reason why he should not impose sentence, mandatory death for mass repair of buildings, structures, facilities or other changes or improvements to real property, including facilities providing utility services, unless there is in effect and applicable to such project a law, regulation, rule, executive order, or contract providing for affirmative action intended to ensure that applicants are employed, and that employees are treated during employment, in such work on the project without regard to their race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry or sex.

Laws, or the portions thereof, authorizing the issuance of such bonds or notes or appropriating such proceeds shall go into effect immediately, or at such other time herein provided, and shall not be subject to referendum. Any moneys to be appropriated from the improvement fund may be used in connection with other moneys from any other source. The bonds and notes, the application of the proceeds thereof, and provisions for and the payment thereof authorized by this section are not subject to any requirements, limitations, or prohibitions of any other section of Article VIII, or sections 5, 6 and 11 of Article XII of this Constitution.

The bonds and notes issued under authority of this section are general obligations of the state and the full faith, credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state are pledged to the payment of the principal thereof and interest and premium thereon.

The bonds and notes shall be issued and sold by the commissioners of the sinking fund (herein called the "commissioners") from time to time in amounts authorized by law, subject to the limitations of this section. If bonds are notes are issued under this section to retire bonds or notes previously issued under this section, such new bonds are notes shall not be counted against the aggregate limit of bonds and notes which may be issued under this section to the extent that the principal amount thereof does not exceed the principal amount of the bonds or notes to be retired thereby. Each issue of bonds shall mature in not more than thirty years from date of issuance. No bond or note shall mature after December 31, 2009. Each issue of notes shall mature in not more than five years from date of issuance, or from the date of issuance of the original debt represented by such notes if such notes are issued after the date of issuance of notes previously issued.

The bonds and the notes shall be sold at competitive sale in the manner determined by the commissioners. The bonds and notes shall bear such terms, consistent with this section, as the commissioners determine or provide for in resolutions for their authorization or sale. Any of the powers and duties of the commissioners under this paragraph may be delegated by each commissioner to an officer or employee of such commissioners' office designated by such commissioner in a written designation filed with the secretary of state.

There is hereby established in the treasury of the state a fund designated Ohio jobs and development bond retirement fund (herein called the "bond retirement fund") into which shall be paid all accrued interest and premium received upon the sale of such bonds and notes. All income and profit received from investment of moneys in the bond retirement fund and the improvement fund, to be made or caused to be made by the transfer of the same to law, shall be paid into the bond retirement fund.

On or before the first day of July in each calendar year, the director of budget and management shall certify to the auditor of state and the treasurer of state the total amount of funds the director of budget and management determines is necessary to provide, together with any moneys in the bond retirement fund available for such purpose, for the payment in the ensuing calendar year of principal and interest and any premium on the bonds and notes, and charges for such payments, other than the amounts funded or to be funded with the proceeds of bonds and notes. Such certification may be supplemented or adjusted by additional certifications provided to the auditor of state and the treasurer of state by the director of budget and management. The auditor of state and the treasurer of state shall take such actions as are necessary to transfer from the state general revenue fund to the bond retirement fund the amounts so certified, as supplemented or adjusted, at the times and in the amounts required for such purposes, without necessity for appropriation; provided that it and to the extent that any part of the amount so certified is not appropriated for such purpose from any other funds, such funds the amount so appropriated and reduce accordingly the amount to be transferred from the state general revenue fund. The bond retirement fund shall be paid out by the treasurer of state to meet the principal of and interest and premium on the bonds and notes and charges for such payments as the same are due and payable, without necessity for appropriation.

To assure that the revenues of the state will at all times be adequate to meet the principal of and interest and premium on the bonds and notes authorized by this section, and charges for such payments, without impairment of other programs of the state, there is hereby levied, as provided below, beginning July 1, 1976, on retail sales made in this state an excise tax at the rate of seven-tenths of one percent of the price of such retail sale, and on the storage, use, or other consumption in this state of tangible personal property an excise tax at the rate of seven-tenths of one percent of the price at which such property has been purchased which excise taxes shall be in addition to all other excise taxes, and from time to time by the state, counties, and transit authorities, or by other taxing authority, on retail sales made in this state and on the storage, use, or other consumption in this state of tangible personal property and shall be imposed upon the same subjects, with the same exclusions, exemptions and refunds, and paid, collected, reported, and administered in all respects in the same manner, as such other excise taxes. Such additional taxes at the rate of seven-tenths of one percent are hereby levied and shall be collected with such other excise taxes authorized by law in the combined amount of whole cents for all such taxes on prices within brackets as prescribed by law, which law is not subject to referendum and shall go into immediate effect for the levy of such additional excise taxes beginning July 1, 1976. If such law is in effect on May 15, 1976, then the tax commissioner shall immediately adopt and file with the secretary of state a bill prescribing such brackets and the whole cents of excise taxes applicable to each bracket; and such rule shall be effective and conclusive, upon such filing, for determining the tax levied hereby and including December 31, 1974 or until the effective date of a law prescribing such brackets, whichever last occurs.

That portion of the taxes collected by the state from and attributable to the excise taxes hereby levied shall be paid, within ten days following the month of receipt, into the bond retirement fund until the balance in such fund is sufficient to pay the principal of and interest and premium on the bonds and notes, and charges for such payments, payable during the then current calendar year, and any balance of such portion received during such calendar year shall be paid into the improvement fund and shall be available for appropriation for costs of capital improvements, if and as provided by law, shall be paid into any other fund or funds for the payment of principal of and interest and premium on any bonds or notes of the state. The purposes of this paragraph, the portion of such sales and use taxes collected by the state from and attributable to the excise taxes levied hereby shall be determined as follows: the total collection of excise taxes collected by the state on retail sales and the storage, use or other consumption of tangible personal property, after deducting the portion to be returned by law to transit authorities, and any other taxing authority then levying such taxes pursuant to law, shall be multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is one-tenth of one percent and the denominator of which is the aggregate rate of such taxes then levied by the state, and the product thereof shall be the amount of such taxes levied and attributable to the excise taxes levied hereby.

The preceding three paragraphs are intended to provide internal procedures of the state for allocation of funds to meet the principal of and interest and premium on the bonds and notes herein authorized, and charges for such payments, and do not in any way qualify or affect the pledge of the full faith, credit, revenue, and taxing power of the state as herein set forth.

The principal of any interest on all bonds and notes issued under this section shall be exempt from all taxes levied by the state or any taxing subdivision or district thereof.

The reference herein to the director of budget and management and the tax commissioner shall be deemed to include officers who pursuant to law shall be responsible to their respective duties.

This section or any action hereunder does not in any way reduce the authority of political subdivisions to levy taxes or incur bonded indebtedness to meet the obligations reflected in section 5a or section 9 of Article XII of this Constitution.

Upon the payment of principal of and interest and premium on the bonds and notes issued under this section or provision in the bond retirement fund of moneys or direct obligations of, or obligations the principal of and interest on which is fully guaranteed by the United States bearing such maturities and interest as well produce moneys in adequate amount at the times required for such payment, or a combination of both, the commissioners promptly shall make a final report to the General Assembly, and any balance or excess remaining in the bond retirement fund shall be disposed of as provided by law. The excise taxes levied by this section shall cease on the thirtieth day after the receipt by the General Assembly of such final report.

murder under California's capital punishment law that went into effect Jan. 1, 1974.

"Carry on," said Sander.

Sander was convicted by a jury on Sept. 4 on four counts of first-degree murder and one count of second-degree murder. The jury also ruled that he was sane on March 2 when the killings occurred at the Ship Ashore motel in Del Norte County.

The sentence carries an automatic appeal to the California Supreme Court. Petersen said Sander must serve life in prison if a higher court rules the death penalty unconstitutional.

Sander, one of half a dozen persons sentenced to death under the mass murder provision of the state law, is scheduled to be transferred to San Quentin within 10 days, authorities said.

He would join 23 men on death row at the prison, all of whom have cases under appeal. The last execution in California was in 1967 and no executions date have been scheduled.

No motive was established behind the rifle slayings, which were described as "senseless" by Sander's attorney, Philip Schafer.

ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT

This amendment will provide the boldest approach ever used by government to clean up blight in Ohio's cities and villages, and to attack the problems of unemployment. The program is a big one to our people.

The most important feature is a series of direct grants to Ohio cities and villages for cleanup and downtown improvement programs. The money can be used for any worthwhile purpose. Possible uses include building of athletic or convention facilities, senior citizen centers, tree-planting, parks and green spaces and parking.

All projects will be initiated at the local level by local elected officials.

But the city renovation is only the beginning. Other features include:

$200 million to clean up depressed areas of Ohio.

$150 million to develop energy resources in Ohio to keep Ohio plants open.

$140 million to build cancer research and treatment hospitals in Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo and Cleveland.

$40 million to expand open heart surgery capacity at the Cleveland Clinic, to make this treatment available to the average working Ohioan.

$275 million to develop top rate ports along Lake Erie and the Ohio River to open new trade horizons for the state.

$75 million for state park facilities, including lodges within 30 minutes of the three largest cities.

$50 million for safe drinking water projects.

$100 million to complete Ohio's vocational education system to make our young people productive citizens.

$50 million for trash resource recovery projects.

$7.5 million to upgrade Ohio's penal institutions.

$145 million for needed additional state government facilities including regional office buildings.

The projects will be paid by a $275 billion bond note, which will be repaid by .7 of one cent increase — less than 1 per cent — in the state sales tax.

The Committee for the Amendment: Thomas J. Moyer, A.G. Lancione, Charles F. Kurles, Michael J. Maloney, Robert T. Secrest.

ARGUMENT IN OPPOSITION TO PROPOSED AMENDMENT

VOTE NO ON ISSUE 5

ISSUE 5 WILL RAISE YOUR SALES TAXES BY 17.5 PER CENT.

Issue 5 proposes to raise $5.83 billion ($2.75 billion principal and $3.08 billion interest) for capital improvements projects by the sale of bonds. The bonds are to be paid for by revenues generated by increasing YOUR Ohio Sales Tax by 17.5 per cent.

ISSUE 5 IS TOO EXPENSIVE.

Issue 5 proposes to place Ohioans in debt to the tune of $1.5 billion over 30 years. It is a haphazard and unplanned program with all the earmarks of a pork barrel promising something for nothing to everyone.

EACH OHIO FAMILY WILL HAVE TO PAY $1500 IN ADDITIONAL TAXES FOR THIS PROGRAM.

The cost of Ohio's present bond debt, coupled with these issues, will mean a loss to the General Revenue Fund of more than one half a billion dollars each year — a vast sum that could have been applied to improve existing state services or reduce your tax burdens.

ISSUE 5 BENEFITS ONLY THOSE PEOPLE WHO ARE LEAST AFFECTED BY REGRESSIVE TAXES.

Issue 5 as a sales tax increase is most harmful to those persons of moderate and low income who can least afford the additional tax burden.

The people who benefit from these issues are the people who will be buying the bonds, and sharing in the interest on these $1.5 billion in interest which YOU and every working man and woman in Ohio will be paying over the next 30 years.

ISSUE 5 CREATES A PERMANENT DEBT FOR TEMPORARY JOBS.

Issue 5 will place future generations in serious debt while creating only a minimal number of temporary new jobs; jobs which will last at the most for only a year or two.

Ohio cannot afford to go into debt to create a few jobs for programs of questionable value.

Controlling board defers most action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Democrat-dominated State Controlling Board has delayed until next Monday action in a mounting dispute over the layoff of Democratic employees by the Republican Rhodes administration.

Also deferred by the board Monday, at a special meeting on several controversial problems, was a $4 million rent bill for agencies in the new State Office Tower.

Instead, the board devoted the entire day to a long series of requests by various departments and agencies to delay the payment of bills carried over from the fiscal year that ended June 30.

Under new language in the 1975-1977 budget bill, the board must approve such extensions. The Office of Budget and Management, previously had that authority.

Already under board consideration is a request for release of $8 million to prevent further layoffs in the natural resources and taxation departments. A resolution adopted by the legislature, also controlled by Democrats, earmarked those layoff prevention funds from a nearly depleted $18.8 million emergency fund.

However, the board received another request Monday from the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation for $2.1 million to prevent further layoffs and transfers in that department.

Director Dr. Timothy Moritz said the release of that amount would forestall further belt tightening in the department until February.

Republicans maintain the layoffs came about as a result of budget cuts by the legislature as well as an executive order by Gov. James A. Rhodes. Democrats assert the estimated 1,500 employees released so far are members of their party who fell victim to a GOP patronage maneuver—some in violation of civil service statutes.

The board also is expected to act next week on a request for $897 million to finance the consumer protection division in the Department of Commerce. The division is unfunded as a result of the legislature's budget cuts, said Charles Rhoads, deputy director.

At the same time, Democratic Atty. Gen. William J. Brown is asking the board for $250,000 in emergency funds in order to reinstitute consumer complaint activities he said have been abandoned by the commerce department.

Autumn officially began today in Ohio, but cool fallish weather has persisted for the past week or more. The outlook is for temperatures to remain below normal for the rest of the week.

Highs Monday ranged from only 55 near Ashtabula to 62 in Cincinnati, and about the same can be expected today.

Ohio still is on the northern fringe of the rain associated with hurricane Eloise but weather in the state has been generally cloudy to partly cloudy with a little rain in the extreme southern tip.

Jewels stolen; worth $100,000

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Thieves apparently broke into a parked van over the weekend and got away with an estimated $100,000 in jewels, police reported Monday.

Al Ramsay, a self-employed antique salesman from suburban Avondale, told police he was on his way to a gem show and had left the van filled with his display items.

Nursing homes may nix patients

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State welfare director Raymond F. McKenna plans no immediate action concerning a threat by nursing home representatives to stop accepting Medicaid patients.

The Ohio Health Care Association said Monday notices were sent to about 1,000 Ohio nursing homes recommending that they refuse welfare patients because of the state's failure to fully implement subsidy increases called for in the new budget.

"I think we'll just have to wait and see," McKenna said Monday. "It will probably take several weeks before we know (the situation)."

McKenna said the legislature had mandated increases in state Medicare reimbursements in drawing up the 1975-77 budget, but funded his department $30 million below the new level.

Consequently, McKenna instituted with August payments a pro-rata reduction to the homes which are for about 28,000 welfare recipients.

McKenna points out that the homes are still receiving about $34 million more than they did in the biennium that ended June 30. He has all but given up hope of obtaining the additional $30 million from the legislature.

The Ohio Health Care Association, the Nursing Home Coalition, and the Ohio Philanthropical Homes for the Aging announced the new policy Friday. There was no immediate indication as to whether any homes were complying.

McKenna said if the threat were carried out on a large scale, the state might withdraw support from its $147 million share in the nursing home program. The state pays about 46 per cent of the Medicaid cost, compared to a 54 per cent federal outlay.

However, McKenna said problems over admittance for Medicaid patients would probably be dealt with on an individual basis with the homes in question.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A hearing on Copperweld Corp.'s legal efforts to avoid being taken over by a French holding company has been recessed for a week.

Copperweld, which fabricates metal products at plants in Pennsylvania and Ohio, is seeking an injunction to block a $118 million tender offer from Paris-based Societe Imetal.

After six days of testimony ended Monday, U.S. District Court Judge John L. Miller told attorneys for both sides to submit legal briefs by next Monday and to prepare to argue their cases Oct. 1.

As unheralded Seatrain was sweeping to a win in the Little Brown Jug Friday at the Delaware County Fairgrounds, another pacer was resting up after turning in his best time ever in the day's first race.

Returnee, a two-year-old owned by Charles Ellis of Sabina, paced the mile in 2:05 with Rick Kelley of Rt. 4 Washington C.H. in the sulky.

Kelley, who also trains Returnee, has driven the two year-old to seven firsts, nine seconds and six thirds in just 26 starts this year.

The horse paid $17.00, $7.20 and $5.00 along with returning $50.00 as the first half of the Daily Double.

PORPSMOUTH HIGH School grid team swept to an impressive 41-6 win over Chillicothe Friday which is a fact that should interest if not scare Washington C.H. football fans.

Portsmouth will be the first of the tough, final three Blue Lion grid games when they visit Gardner Park October 24. Washington C.H. will then meet Circleville and Miami Trace on the road.

The Trojans racked up 266 yards on the ground thanks to the running of seniors Tony Pack and Danny White while junior quarterback Norm Burrows threw for 92 yards and one touchdown against the Cavaliers.

Statistically, the Trojans did much better than the Blue Lions a week ago against Chillicothe, so coach Maurice Pfeifer's crew will have their work cut out for them next month.

Incidentally, Portsmouth was able to stop everybody, but Mike Fairrow Friday as the Cavalier split end hauled in his fourth touchdown pass of the season. His three receptions gave him 178 yards on eight catches which is the most passing yardage by a Chillicothe player in four years.

Chillicothe will be looking for their first win of the season this Friday and they will have to look hard against Upper Arlington High School which is fresh from a 8-7 victory over Massillon.

PERRY HOSKINS, who was an all-SCOL defensive back and the leader of Circleville's almost undefeated cage team last season, is spending his time on the gridiron at the College of Wooster this season.

The freshmen is listed as a possible

starter at defensive safety for the Fighting Scots.

PROFESSIONAL HOCKEY will make its debut in Cincinnati next month when the Stingers begin their inaugural year in the World Hockey Association against such all-time greats as Gordie Howe and Bobby Hull.

The Stingers will hold a hockey clinic October 9 on their home ice at the new Riverfront Coliseum from 11 a.m. until noon.

Stingers players will demonstrate various aspects and techniques of the game to be followed at noon by a live broadcast of Bob Braun's 50-50 Club with players and coaches as guest.

For those fans, who can't wait for pro hockey to hit the area, two NHL teams will pair off this Saturday at Dayton Hara Arena. The Detroit Red Wings will meet the Washington Capitals on the home ice of the Dayton Gems.

The Gems have a working agreement with both NHL clubs and some ex-Dayton skaters will be on hand for the contest.

BASS FISHERMEN are invited to attend a seminar designed for both the novice and the experienced angler at Bainbridge October 19.

The seminar, sponsored by the Ohio Bass Federation is part of the Fall Festival of Leaves and it will feature well known bass anglers giving tricks of their trade along with movies and slides about bass fishing.

Anglers can take advantage of the fishing water at both Paint Creek Lake and Rocky Fork Lake prior to the seminar.

Interested anglers can obtain more information by writing the Ohio Bass Federation, Box 132, Greenfield.

ASPIRING YOUNG football players between the ages of eight and 13 have until Friday to sign up for the annual Punt, Pass and Kick competition slated for Gardner Park Sunday.

Local grididers can register at Carroll Halliday Ford.

MIAMI TRACE junior high football teams will begin play this Thursday at the high school field.

The four team league will match the Browns against the Greens and the Blacks against the Whites starting at 5:45 p.m.

Admission for the game is 25 cents for students and 50 cents for adults.

Negotiations under the supervision of federal mediators continued today.

After the prolonged sessions, Sargent Karch, council executive director, said management had responded to a challenge by union president Kermit Alexander to make a final offer and give it's "best shot."

Reds lose to Astros

Pirates take NL East flag

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati pitcher Jack Billingham got into trouble in the first inning and the Reds never quite recovered as they lost to the Houston Astros 5-1 in National League baseball action Monday night.

Billingham, 15-10, allowed singles from Arthur Gardner and Rob Andrews, then Cesar Cedeno smacked his 13th homer of the season to put the Astros ahead 3-0.

Billingham blanked the Astros on three hits during the next five innings before being relieved by Will McEnaney, who walked McEnaney in the seventh and paved the way for Cliff Johnson to push the score to 5-0 with his 17th homer of the year.

The loss was Cincinnati's 53rd of the year, against 103 wins. The Reds have three more games against Houston and three at home against Atlanta before finishing the season.

Houston hurler Joe Niekro, 6-4, took the victory, but needed help in the ninth inning from Paul Siebert after loading the bases.

Niekro, who allowed the Reds only four hits in eight innings, says he has been pitching well since the All-Star break.

"I had pretty good stuff," Niekro said. "My elbow has been a little aching and I didn't have as much velocity as I usually do. But I was thankful I was able to go this far against a team like Cincinnati. I threw 55 to 60 per cent knuckle balls."

Niekro, who had given up only two hits going into the ninth, ran into trouble in that inning. Doug Flynn got an infield hit and Dave Concepcion followed with a single. Niekro hit Ken Griffey to load the bases and then walked Darrel Chaney to force in a run.

Siebert, a rookie, relieved. He struck out pinch hitter Tony Perez and got George Foster, also pinch hitting, to hit into a game-ending double play. That gained the young left-hander his first save of the season.

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark may not have been the only man in Three Rivers Stadium that didn't know his team was eliminated from the National League East race but he was the only one who admitted it.

"We aren't out of it if we win every game and they lose every game," insisted Ozark after Pittsburgh walloped the Phils 11-3. Told that his team was seven games back with just six to play, Ozark said, "That's news to me ... it's disheartening."

If Ozark wanted more confirmation he could have dropped by the Pirate clubhouse where the champagne was flowing and congratulations being exchanged all around.

"This is a great way to win a championship, beating the team that has been chasing you," said Pittsburgh

"We're used to winning," said outfielder Dave Parker. "Even when we went bad this year the Phillies didn't gain any ground on us and we just felt 'Hey, it's meant for us.'"

"I haven't been on a championship team since I was 14," added reliever Kent Tekulve. "We won the Babe Ruth League or something."

It was the fifth division crown in the last six years for the Bucs.

Elsewhere in the NL, Houston beat Cincinnati 5-1, San Diego edged Los Angeles 6-5 in 11 innings and St. Louis and Montreal split a double header, the Cardinals winning the first game 6-4 in 12 innings and the Expos taking the second one 8-5.

The Bucs brought out the big bats

Monday night to end Phillie hopes of a

6-3 lead over the first seven innings,

then wrapped it up with five runs in the eighth.

Dave Parker and Richie Zisk drove in four runs each, Parker with two singles and his 23rd home run and Zisk with two singles and a double. Ozark tried to stem the tide with seven pitchers and the first one, Tom Underwood, 14-13, took the loss.

Bruce Kison, 12-11, and Tekulve teamed for a seven-hitter for Pittsburgh.

Hector Torres led off the 11th inning with a home run to give San Diego the victory, snapping the Padres six-game losing streak. San Diego tied it in the ninth on a two-out wild pitch by Montreal first baseman Nate Colbert.

Twins 2, A's 1

Minnesota left-hander Eddie Bane delayed Oakland's division clinching celebration, scattering seven hits before needing ninth-inning relief help from Bill Campbell and Tom Burgeier.

The Royals came close to eliminating themselves, rallying for two runs in the eighth to just nip Texas. George Brett hit a leadoff single and came home on Tony Solaita's RBI double to right. Al Cowens then singled to set up pinch-hitter Cookie Rojas' game-winning sacrifice fly.

Al Fitzmorris pitched an eight-hitter to raise his record to 16-11.

Angels 3, White Sox 0

Adrian Garrett smashed a three-run homer off Rich Gossage in the 16th inning to give California its marathon victory over the White Sox.

Indians 7, Brewers 6

Pinch hitter Oscar Gamble's two-run single in the bottom of the ninth lifted Cleveland past Milwaukee, which profited from two homers by George Scott.

Circleville number two; Trace, Lions mentioned

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Class AAA Cincinnati Moeller and Class AA Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary, two of The Associated Press' mythical state champions last season, seized the leads today in the first Ohio high school football ratings of the regular 1975 season.

Middleton Fenwick, second to McDonald in the final poll in 1974, claimed the No. 1 spot in the Class A ratings by a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

The leaders all have peeled off three straight victories to start the season.

Moeller, the first Cincinnati school ever to win the big school ratings' title, piled up the most points in any division this week. The Queen City power accumulated 156 points.

Two Warren strongboys, Western Reserve and Harding, claimed the next two Class AAA spots. Western Reserve earned 119 points, 12 ahead of Harding. Both are 3-0.

St. Vincent-St. Mary's margin was less formidable in Class AA. The leaders collected 95 points, 10 more than runnerup Circleville, also 3-0. Wheelersburg, riding a 28-game winning streak, was third, three points behind Circleville.

Fenwick, which rolled to the Class A poll title last fall, had 149 points while runnerup Newark Catholic, a former AP mythical state winner, earned 127 points in a two-team race.

Canal Winchester, also cruising along with a 3-0 start, claimed the No. 3 position with 95 points.

Lancaster was fourth in Class AAA, followed, in order, by Newark, Zanesville, East Liverpool, Upper Arlington, Kettering Alter and Youngstown Mooney.

In Class AA, New Lexington, another ex-AP state champion, was fourth and then, in order, came Beloit West Branch, Minerva, Toronto, Ironton, Wellston and Cleveland Holy Name.

Raiders dominate Dolphins, 31-21

MIAMI (AP) — Oakland Coach John Madden finally found out what it's like to win a National Football League season opener. But injuries have cooled his excitement over the Raiders' convincing 31-21 conquest of the Miami Dolphins.

Madden apparently lost defensive tackle Kelvin Korver for the season with knee ligament damage in Monday night's victory. Oakland's first opening success in six years. A team spokesman also said fullback Marv Hubbard was probably lost for three weeks with a shoulder injury.

On the bright side was a defensive effort that thoroughly dominated Miami in the first half and quarterback Ken Stabler's expert dissecting of a Dolphin defense, a defense noticeably missing injured veterans Nick Buoniconti, Dick Anderson and Manny Fernandez.

"We got off to a good jump .. then in the second half, it seemed something would always happen to give Miami a little lift," said Madden after breaking Miami's 31-game winning streak at home.

"They proved they're still a fine team. They kept coming back at us," Madden said of the Dolphins, whose offense was without World Football League defectors Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick.

The Raiders jumped on top 17-0 on

Woody keeps Bucks up for next contest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — First, victories over Michigan State and Penn State. Now North Carolina, a 34-7 loser last week.

That's the situation facing Woody Hayes Saturday. But the Ohio State football coach is unfluffed over a letdown by his Buckeyes.

"Not when they have a mean, old coach," he reminded newsmen Monday.

"Yes, it will be a problem, but I've been through letdowns before. I've had experience and our kids seem to listen better."

Council to postpone sewage project vote

No decision will be reached on the proposed city sewage system improvement system during Washington C.H. City Council's regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

Although Council members were expected to vote on continuing or abandoning the multi-million dollar renovation project, City Council chairman Ralph L. Cook said today no decision will be reached on Wednesday night.

"We're still awaiting additional information from the Chicago office of the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) on what the consequences would be if we don't go ahead with the project at this time," Cook said.

Cook said following last week's public meeting on the proposed sewer project that if the city was going to accept a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency offer for federal funding, a decision would have to be reached at the next regular City Council session.

The next phase of the city's participation in the project would be to submit an application for a $960,265.03 federal grant. The federal grant would finance the preparation of detailed engineering plans, begin the process for construction bids and to reimburse the city for previously incurred costs.

The city's share (25 per cent) of the federal grant would be $240,066.25.

The total project is estimated to cost $23.6 million. The cost would be paid through a 75 per cent reimbursement grant from the federal government and 25 per cent as the city's share.

Representatives of C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., of Worthington, the city's consulting engineering firm, have pointed out a new sewer rate schedule, to be adopted immediately, would generate a surplus of $1.5 million before 1980 when actual construction is scheduled to begin. With the $1.5 million being raised over a five-year period before 1980, the engineers have said the city would be required to

Memo would curb rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislators were sent a copy of a memo Monday by a state employees union which was said to place restrictions on state workers' discussions with the representatives.

William E. Garnes, area director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said the memo from the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation stated that "any complaints submitted to legislators in reference to MR (mental retardation) transfers will be considered gross insubordination and will be dealt with as such."

Al Dopking, a spokesman for the department, said the department's general office in Columbus was "totally unaware of any such memorandum. Nothing went out from the general office."

State layoffs

continue to rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An additional 243 employees are being laid off from the Department of Natural Resources, bringing to 410 the total number of DNR workers furloughed within the last month, a department spokesman said Monday.

The most recent layoffs, effective Oct. 8, affect employees in 41 western and southern Ohio counties, the spokesman said.

"These layoffs are necessary because of the lack of personal service funds caused largely by a severe cut in the Department of Natural Resources' operating budget by the 111th General Assembly," director Robert Teeter explained.

Earlier this month, the department laid off 167 employees.

Vocational agriculture topic at Kiwanis meet

Vocational agriculture and Future Farmers of America programs were discussed at the regular weekly meeting of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club Monday night in the parlor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Charles Andrews, vocational agriculture instructor at Miami Trace High School, and Miami Trace High School students Ken Moon and Beth Jenks presented the program.

Andrews explained the local, state and national levels of Future Farmers of America. The FFA chapter at Miami Trace High School is currently sixth of 330 chapters in Ohio and received the national gold emblem award.

In the vocational agriculture program at Miami Trace High School, Andrews said instructors attempt to teach more than just farming. Students can enroll in vocational agriculture and college preparatory courses at the same time. He said each student enrolling in vocational agriculture has a different need to be met and the teaching is adjusted to try to fit these needs.

He stated that the freshman vocational agriculture year consists of two periods per day of courses concerning introduction to agriculture, basic animal science, carpentry and mechanics skills, basic plant life and agronomy. A series of semester subjects are offered beyond the freshman year.

Andrews said there are presently 18 girls in the vocational agriculture program at Miami Trace High School.

The program was concluded with a slide presentation covering all facets of farming and FFA programs.

The meeting was conducted by club president Guy M. Foster. Mike Campbell arranged the program.

Guests were Tim Mossbarger with his father, Tom Mossbarger, and Steve Hawkins, from Ohio State University, a student teacher in the vocational agriculture department at Miami Trace High School. Interclub members were present the Downtown Kiwanis club in Columbus.

Foster announced that the next dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club will be held at 6:15 p.m. Monday, Sept. 29 in the Terrace Lounge.

Bakeries named in price-fix suit

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — About 20 southwest Ohio school districts could receive damage awards if the Cincinnati Board of Education wins a price-fixing suit against three Cincinnati wholesale bakeries, according to the Ohio attorney general's office.

The board voted 5-2 Monday to join the attorney general's office in a lawsuit against Rainbo Baking Co., Klosterman's French Baking Co. and Rubel Baking Co.

The suit charges that the three bakeries with "conspiring since 1969 to restrict competitive trade and commerce by submitting noncompetitive bid quotations in the sale of bread products to the Cincinnati School District and other school districts."

Jim Gravelle, press secretary to the attorney general, declined to name the districts in Hamilton, Butler, Clermont and Warren counties.

The complaint alleges that the board has paid too much for bread because bakery representatives agreed to submit noncompetitive bids to the school districts, a violation of federal and state law.

Gravelle said about 20 area school districts buy bread from the three bakeries. The other districts decided not to join the suit as plaintiffs, but would share damage awards if the case is won.

The complaint seeks damages under federal law of triple any alleged overpayments for bread products and under state law of double any alleged overpayments.

The Cincinnati school system purchases about $200,000 a year in bread products.

The attorney general's office entered the case a year ago when investigators found a pattern in bread prices paid by school districts, Gravelle said.

The Cincinnati Board of Education had to commit $5,000 to join the case, with the fee going toward court costs. If the case is won, the defendants would have to pay all costs.

Mexico gets new president

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The clamor of cowbells and rattle of wooden drums announced that Finance Minister Jose Lopez Portillo will be Mexico's next president.

Three dozen lottery ticket salesmen, some in their Sunday best and others wearing pants held up by rope, invaded the treasury building plaza Monday with a huge banner bearing Lopez Portillo's name.

The ticket sellers, each armed with at least 10 big cow clangers, began chanting the treasury chief's name and working themselves into a frenzy.

Word spread from the plaza that the 55-year-old finance minister, the son of a government petroleum official, would succeed President Luis Echeverria as the leader of the 58 million Mexicans for six years.

Lopez Portillo is the candidate of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, the PRI, which has won every presidential election by huge majorities since it was organized in 1929. The election will be next July 5, and he will take office Dec. 1, 1976.

Presidents are limited to one term, and the outgoing man usually picks his successor from the members of his cabinet. The party lets a group of peasants or a union make the announcement, the procedure followed Monday.

Political observers expect Lopez Portillo to continue Echeverria's drive for economic independence from the United States, more nationalization of private businesses and higher taxes on the rich and middle class to finance rural projects.

Labor gets chance to manage

NEW YORK (AP) — The gripe of the disgruntled worker is as familiar a sound as the factory whistle: "If only I ran this place, things would be a lot different."

It's an ancient gripe that predates industrial society and probably written history as well, but the management response is new: "Okay, buddy, let's see what you can do."

Throughout the industrial world today management and labor are experimenting with various concepts and techniques designed to enlarge the area in which they can cooperate.

To date, the idea of joint management has been carried a lot further in Europe than in the United States. Six nations there require labor representation on the boards of major companies.

American unions aren't sure they want board representation. Perhaps better organized than their European counterparts, they feel able to accomplish just as much under existing arrangements. To join boards, some union officials fear, is to compromise their effectiveness.

In many companies workers and management are cooperating in so-called job enrichment programs whose goals are to improve working conditions and reduce costs.

To some extent, the assembly line is suspect. Various companies are testing substitutes, such as cluster assembly, in which groups of workers perform not one specific chore but are allowed to exercise skills and judgment by constructing entire units.

Profs. Edward Lawler and Stanley

Seashore of the University of Michigan are in the midst of a three-year, on-the-job study of the possibilities and implications of involving lower level workers in management decisions.

They report that all the experiments, conducted at various sites, show "some indication of improved performance for the organization and the people in it." Later this year they will have more conclusive results.

One of these experiments, they state, already has shown promising results. It began late in 1973, involving workers and management of the Rushton Mining Co., Rushton, Pa. Prof. Eric Trist of the University of Pennsylvania was consultant.

The experiment began with establishment of a joint steering committee composed of representatives of the United Mine Workers and management. An experimental work group of 27 volunteers was set up from the regular work force, nine to a shift.

All the workers were put on top pay, and all were trained to rotate to any job on the team. Each shift foreman had sole responsibility for the safety of the crew, and responsibility for coal production rested with the crew itself.

Grievances also were agreed to be the responsibility of the crew, and during the experiment workers had no recourse to either a foreman or the mine's grievance committee.

The researchers found "exciting" changes began to take place.

The experimental group, the Michigan researchers say, boasts lower supply costs, higher production rates, lower absenteeism, lower turnover, a record low accident rate and the lowest number of safety violations in the mine's history.

Senate eyes intelligence

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence agencies ignored a presidential decision to revoke the so-called Huston Plan authorizing illegal and unconstitutional methods of gathering domestic intelligence, the chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee said today.

"The decision of the President seemed to matter little," Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho said. The CIA, FBI and other intelligence agencies

"continued the very practices for which they had sought presidential authority" in the Huston Plan, Church

State officials ready testimony

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Five top-elected state officials have been invited to testify Thursday before the Indiana House subcommittee on executive reorganization.

Gov. Otis R. Bowen is sending an executive assistant, Raymond W. Rizzo. Others invited are Lt. Gov. Robert D. Orr, Secretary of State Larry A. Conrad, Treasurer Jack L. New, Atty. Gen. Theodore L. Sendak, Auditor Mary Currie and School Supt. Harold H. Negley.

The subcommittee is considering proposals to revamp state government into about 20 cabinet-type agencies.

Indiana facing budget problems

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — State Budget Director Edison Thuma warns that state general fund spending could exceed revenues by $150 million this fiscal year.

Thuma said Monday staggering welfare costs are the big problem and predicted the 1976 legislature will face a headache in trying to produce a balanced budget.

Property tax distribution set

INDIANAPOLIS — Marion, Lake and Allen counties are getting the lion's share of a $19 million distribution from the Property Tax Replacement Fund.

Gov. Otis Bowen announced the distribution Monday. It's the second 15 per cent advance on the November allotment.

Marion County gets nearly $3.6 million, Lake $2.7 million and Allen $1.11 million. No other county receives more than $1 million.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUCK
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, gang, time for the biannual Fearless Forecast in which we predict which of the 26 regularly-scheduled new series on television will prosper or poop out.

As in past years, the Forecast is conducted without reference to tea leaves, or their equivalent, the Nielsen ratings. All of it is, as Quasimodo might say, just a hunch. Here then, the Forecast:

SATURDAY — Howard Cosell, the Mouth that Roared, got off to a tame start with his live variety show. But it has promise and will do at least a season. Not so "Matt Helm." "Doe" also will turn his head, cough and expire shortly.

SUNDAY — "Swiss Family Robinson" will again be shipwrecked — or is landwrecked as the case may be — by January. "Family Holvak" will be similarly uprooted. "Bronk" may solve crimes, but he'll be gunned down by year's end. "Three for the Road," on the other hand, will pick up strength and wander about for at least a year.

MONDAY — "Barbary Coast" will soon leave San Francisco for the San Andreas Fault, but "Phyllis" might escape the Big Shake for a year. But only a year. "The Invisible Man," of course, hasn't a ghost of a chance.

TUESDAY — "Welcome Back, Kotter" is picking up script strength and will graduate to another season. "Joe and Sons" will last as long as Jerry Stiller is featured in it. "Switch" gets maybe a season, but "Beacon Hill," which started on the top, will be at the bottom by January, its characters more jumbled than now. "Joe Forrester," meanwhile, will pound the pavements into a second season.

WEDNESDAY — "When Things Were Rotten" will get Sherwood Forest defoliated, but it'll take a season. "Starsky and Hutch" — yeah. Half a season. "Kate McShane" will lose her final case by midyear at about the same time "Doctor's Hospital" is closed.

THURSDAY — "On the Rocks" will pound its way to a second term, making big jokes out of little ones. "The Montefuscos" will be out of pasta by January, while the liberation of "Fay" will continue for at least a year.

"Ellery Queen" also will last a year, but "Medical Story" will be DOA by mid-season, despite intensive efforts at script-to-mouth resuscitation.

FRIDAY — "Mobile One," about a TV reporter, probably will get the Big Story — about its cancellation — from the January newspapers. "Big Eddie," about an ex-gambler, may last a year if CBS lets Sheldon Leonard associate more with the spirit of Damon Runyon. If not, we make book this show won't even place in the mid-season futurity. We end the Fearless Forecast with a reminder to stay tuned for the big show ... life is only the station break.

UMW grievance speedup sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — An industry-union committee trying to find ways to speed up the processes for handling coal miners' grievances will hold public hearings soon.

Formation of the study committee came after a recent month-long wildcat strike that began in protest to the slow handling of complaints filed by United Mine Workers members.

UMW Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick said Monday he had spent the weekend meeting with officials of the Charleston, W.Va.-based District 17 to begin preparations for the hearings which will be held in that district where the recent strike was spawned.

"The problems rank and file miners are having getting grievances settled quickly, at the mine site, are very real," he said, "and it's long past time that everyone concerned took a long, hard look at them."

Patrick said the industry-union commission will examine all areas in which miners' grievances are not being settled and present its findings to both the Bituminous Coal Operators Association and U.S. District Court judges in the area.

Serving on the commission with Patrick are UMW International Executive Board Members Gene Mitchell of District 12 in Illinois and Nick DeVine of District 5 in Western Pennsylvania.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

It is said that every weapon devised by the wit of man sooner or later leads to an effective counter-weapon that acts as an equalizer. I don't know whether this is literally true or not, but I do know there are many situations that arise in bridge where the equivalent principle applies.

This deal occurred in a team of four match. At the first table, West led a heart. East took dummy's queen with the king and returned a heart to the ace.

Swollen Glands: Needless Fear

I worry because my 9-year-old son keeps getting attacks of swollen glands in the neck. The thought that terrifies me is that this might be an early warning of leukemia, or trouble like that.

Mrs. H. B., Ohio

Dear Mrs. B.:
Physicians are aware of the concern that mothers have about glands in the neck.

Anxiety about it is rampant, mostly because the real meaning of glands is not understood.

There are, perhaps, a thousand glands (lymph nodes), in the entire body. These vary in size, from tiny, barely perceptible ones to grape size.

Just as there is a circulatory system that carries blood through the arteries and veins, so is there an important lifesaving lymph drainage system that circulates everywhere.

Lymph glands act as filters and collect bacteria, waste products and even foreign particles that have entered the lymph stream.

Glands are the protective agents located at strategic points in the body to guard against the spread of infection.

Swelling of the glands of the neck, for example, may be due to tonsillitis or infections of the scalp. Glands in the groin may be enlarged because they have trapped infection somewhere in the feet or the legs.

Swelling under the armpit may reflect protection against infection of the hand or the arm.

There is no reason for you to believe that leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, tuberculosis or other serious conditions are necessarily indicated by the swelling.

A general examination and a study of the blood can immediately put your mind at ease. It is pointless to be in fear of a nonexisting condition. Your anxiety, before long, will be transmitted to your son. Then the entire family pays a penalty for unnecessary fear.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Swollen Glands: Needless Fear." To receive a copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Ulcer Booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

24 Chillicothe patients face transfers

CHILlicothe, Ohio (AP) — The 24 patients now at the Chillicothe Treatment and Research Center will be transferred Tuesday and Wednesday to the Junction City Treatment Center.

The transfer was scheduled for Sept. 5 but was delayed when patients went to court to prevent the move. A federal court at Toledo granted the state's request to make the move.

The Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation said the center here will be closed following the transfer and the 23 employees assigned to other facilities or laid off.

The center now has a staff of 25, including a psychiatrist and a social worker on loan from the Junction City facility. They will return to Junction City when the transfer is completed.

The center is housed in a building on the grounds of the Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

CCI plans to use the building for inmate housing.

The treatment center opened here in 1967 to treat emotionally and mentally disturbed felons from Ohio prisons.

When the mental health and retardation agency was separated from the state corrections department about four years ago the treatment facility was assigned to the new agency.

Name hospital chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A. Robert Crawford Jr., 46, a veteran of 19 years in hospital administration, has been named superintendent of Tiffin State Hospital, effective Oct. 6.

Stowe House in Cincinnati, Ohio, the home of Harriet Beecher Stowe's father, is now a museum of Negro history.

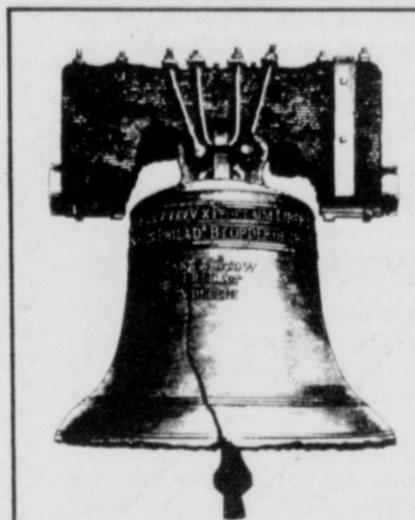

Declarer played a low club to the ten, losing to West's jack, and West returned a heart to South's jack.

South now played the king of clubs, overtook it in dummy with the ace and, with East's queen falling on the trick, he was able to run dummy's clubs and make four notrump.

The same contract was defeated at the second table after a heart lead by West and a heart return by East to dummy's ace. Again declarer played a low club to the ten, but here West allowed South's ten to win the trick! As a result of this unusual play, declarer could not run dummy's clubs and wound up going down two.

Both declarers were very much on their toes in playing the clubs as they did. They realized that their best chance for the contract was to find East with the Q-x or J- of clubs, in which case they would score five club tricks after losing the ten to West's jack or queen.

The second declarer suffered a considerable setback by running into unusually tight defense. At this table West found the right counter-weapon to resist South's method of attack. West sacrificed a club trick by refusing to win the ten, but he got back three tricks in exchange.

So what's new? There's so much new we can only touch on a fraction of the stuff. First, there's the Cibachrome process for making color prints. Last week at our CKFN session we had a new movie on how to make color prints by the Cibachrome process. The simplicity of the process and the quality of the product will make Cibachrome popular for all of us who have enlargers and have wished to make color prints. You see, there's no messing with a negative; you make the print directly from your slide.

Then there are some new cameras that you should tune in on if you want to get into SLR photography but don't have three hundred bucks to invest for the basic camera. Now, for slightly over a hundred and fifty you're in business with a good quality camera and lens.

This will be a big year for super eight sound movies. In fact, the Cibachrome film we mentioned above was on super eight sound film (the first commercial film we'd seen on super eight) and the quality was quite good. Wouldn't your own home movies with sound be fun?

For those who love to travel, or just love travel pictures, Kodak has a book, published in England, which contains more than 400 exceptional color illustrations of scenes from 15 countries all over the world. THE TRAVELERS' BOOK OF COLOUR PHOTOGRAPHY is a book you'll surely want for your collection. The price won't hurt you, either.

Another book that many have been inquiring about is SPOTLIGHT ON THE BILDERBERGERS and we just got our first shipment in of this popular paperback. Published within the last few months, it tells of the Bilderberg meetings from the first, in May of 1954, at Oosterbeek, Netherlands, up to the April 25-27, 1975 session as Cesme, Turkey. It lists the names of all participants and has pictures and stories. Most interesting! If you think you know what's going on in the world, and you haven't read this book, rethink.

Oh, yes, it's time to get ready to photograph the wild fall colors. Every year, about this time we tell you that the film of choice for fall colors is AGFA CHROME. That is still the case. If you've never used AGFA CHROME for fall, get with it this year.

Another receives probation

Judge sentences drug defendants

Two persons arrested in June for illicit drug trafficking were sentenced Tuesday morning in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Due to information obtained from probation reports and the statements of another drug defendant at sentencing Monday, one received probation while the other was sentenced to the maximum prison term.

Robert A. Beedy, 21, of 1126 E. Temple St., had pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana for sale and was placed on five years probation by Judge Evelyn W. Coffman.

A charge of sale of the drug was dismissed by the prosecution because the time Beedy entered his guilty plea.

Judge Coffman cited Beedy's "full disclosure and cooperation" as primary evidence of his desire to rehabilitate himself.

Joseph W. Seymour, 19, of 427 Peddicord Ave., who was sentenced Monday also received leniency for cooperating with law-enforcement officers and the court.

Arrested in connection with the same incidents as Robert T. Lutz, 19, of 523 E. Temple St., Seymour made statements at his sentencing which influenced the judge concerning Lutz, who was found guilty by a jury last month.

Although defense attorney Andrew Dennison of Cincinnati spoke in Lutz's behalf, Judge Coffman imposed the maximum sentence for sale of marijuana, 20 to 40 years in prison.

Dennison pointed out that Lutz was currently enrolled as a junior at Morehead (Ky.) State University. He said the defendant's efforts to continue his education was evidence of his desire to become a responsible member of the community. He added that Lutz had been approached by the state narcotics agent to whom he sold marijuana, and had not sought out a buyer for the substance. He also said Lutz had no previous arrest record.

Assistant county prosecuting attorney John H. Roszman, representing the state, indicated that information supplied by Seymour at the sentencing had shown that the sale was not an isolated case. He said that he was not sure that Lutz would be rehabilitated by probation since the defendant had not indicated any change in his attitude toward crimes involving marijuana.

Judge Coffman stated that she did not feel that the defendant's college pursuits would deter him from the "drug scene." She said many colleges are infested with drugs, and according to her reports, Morehead State University was one of them.

She also noted that, according to Seymour, Lutz had "smoked marijuana at the home of a friend and neighbor."

In light of these reports, she said it appeared that the defendant was not the victim of an isolated incident, but rather that he had a history of involvement in drugs.

She therefore sentenced him to one year in jail for possession of marijuana, 10 to 20 years for possession for sale, and 20 to 40 years for sale of the drug. All three terms are to run concurrently.

In conjunction with Dennison's request that she keep in mind an appeal's court ruling which was found the sentence for sale of marijuana cruel and unusual punishment, she said the penalty in Ohio is still 20 to 40 years and that she was sentencing under the present code.

She also noted that a recent bill passed by the Ohio legislature has changed the penalties for crimes relating to marijuana, but the new law does not go into effect until after this year.

At that time, the sentence will be modified, but not until then, she said.

She denied request from defense counsel for a stay of execution pending an appeal.

Finding the defendant indigent, she appointed Dennison to represent Lutz during the course of an appeal.

Hurricane brings gas cutbacks

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Natural gas supplies to industrial customers in at least three states have been cut back because of Hurricane Eloise, according to officials of Tenneco, Inc., of Houston, Tex.

Tenneco supplies gas to customers in several states, including Kentucky, Ohio and Tennessee.

A spokesman said Tenneco was forced to shut down its offshore wells because of the hurricane, and had asked several of its larger customers and subsidiaries to voluntarily cut back on their gas supplies.

In Kentucky, Inland Gas Co. of Ashland said it had cut back supplies to its industrial customers by 22 per cent.

Seek ruling on disability

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William J. Brown urged the U.S. Supreme Court on Monday to rule that disability income insurance programs that exclude pregnancy-related disabilities discriminate against women.

"The State of Ohio is very interested in the outcome of this case because we have several cases pending in our office that raise the same issue," Brown said.

Brown encouraged the court to decide the issue in favor of women. He said the state employee disability income protection plan does cover pregnancy-related disabilities.

Brown commented in the case of Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. vs. Wetzel in which a Pennsylvania woman sued her insurance company for discrimination and won in two lower courts.

Kleppe faces tough hearing on appointment to cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas Kleppe's past silence on conservation and environmental issues may prove to be the main hurdle facing the North Dakota millionaire as he seeks confirmation as interior secretary.

Those opposed to Kleppe's nomination have asked whether his experience as a wax manufacturer, a politician and as head of the Small Business Administration qualify him to take over the Interior Department.

The Senate begins confirmation hearings today on his nomination.

Representatives of many environmental protection groups expressed acute disappointment when President Ford nominated the 56-year-old Kleppe to head a department with heavy impact on the environment.

In a large sense, Kleppe faces the opposite problem encountered by his immediate predecessor, former Wyoming Gov. Stanley K. Hathaway. In a grueling set of hearings, Hathaway was forced to defend his extensive and controversial record on environmental and conservation issues.

Hathaway quit after less than six weeks on the job, and friends blamed the strain of the hearings for mental pressures that led to his hospitalization and resignation.

Kleppe, unlike Hathaway, is widely regarded as having no public environmental or conservation views to defend.

"We are very disappointed that the President hasn't nominated someone with a more distinguished record in the field," said Charles Clusen, spokesman for the Sierra Club.

But Sen. Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., whose Senate seat Kleppe failed twice to win, says Kleppe is qualified.

Kleppe was appointed to the SBA post by President Richard M. Nixon in 1970 after Kleppe failed the second time to beat Burdick.

A former mayor of Bismarck, N.D., Kleppe served in the House of Representatives from 1964 to 1970. He was never a member of the House Interior Committee.

Secrecy fight continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration, fighting a dual battle with Congress over secrecy, is defying congressional subpoenas for documents on U.S. intelligence operations and the Arab boycott against Israel.

House Intelligence Committee Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said Monday "all my indications are" that Ford will not turn over subpoenaed documents to the committee.

Ford cut off both documents and witnesses to the committee two weeks ago after it disclosed that U.S. intelligence monitored Egyptian communications before the 1973 Mideast war.

On the second front, Secretary of Commerce Rogers C. B. Morton refused Monday to comply with a House subcommittee's subpoena for names of U.S. companies involved in the Arab boycott against Israel.

Driver hurt, charged after city accident

A Fayette County woman was injured and cited for driving left of center when she collided with two parked cars and a Dayton Power and Light Co. utility pole at 11:27 p.m. Monday, while traveling south on Oakland Avenue near the Dayton Avenue intersection.

Washington C.H. Police Ptl. Tony Wilson levied the traffic charge against Delores J. Brown, 37, of 2058 Greenfield-Sabina Road, when she struck parked cars belonging to Nova Stickley, 623 W. Oakland Ave., and Everett Shasteen, 633 Oakland Ave., and then continued crashing into the pole.

The Brown auto was severely damaged in the wreck and the driver was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by police after claiming injury. She was treated for bruises sustained to her back, forehead and leg and released. The Stickley auto was also severely damaged according to police estimates and the Shasteen auto, moderately damaged.

Ms. Brown told police an oncoming auto had forced her off course and into the parked vehicles.

Two larcenies checked

Two larcenies and an incident of malicious destruction were reported by the Washington C.H. Police Department today. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department is presently investigating a burglary at the Hockman Grain Co.

The Hockman Grain Co. in Madison Mills was entered through an unlocked window sometime between Sunday and Monday, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported today. Stolen was a set of scales and a radio which broadcasts only a weather band. Investigation is continuing.

A citizens band radio belonging to Paul Spires, 1017 Briar Ave., was stolen from his truck between 9 p.m. Sunday and 12 p.m. Monday. Police valued the radio at $189.95 and reported the serial number as 75075.

A citizens band radio was also stolen from a van belonging to Frank Rhoades, Rt. 2, while the vehicle was parked in the 900 block of Briar Avenue sometime Sunday, police reported.

An antenna valued at $15 was broken off a car owned by Albert C. Heer, 628 S. Main St., between 9 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday, police stated.

Faulty alarm

A faulty smoke alarm brought Washington C.H. firemen to the Court House Manor Nursing Home, 250 Glenn Ave., at 2:48 p.m. Monday.

Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen reported the alarm system was presently under repair.

On multi-million dollar city sewage project

Whenever decision comes, it won't be easy

By GEORGE MALEK

Members of the Washington C.H. City Council will soon face the decision to continue to investigate or to abandon the proposed revamping of the city sewer system. As all Council members are aware, the decision will not be an easy one.

Should Council elect to proceed with the project, area residents will be committed to some $325,000 in engineering fees to obtain detailed plans for construction of new sewer lines and renovation of the present treatment plant.

If Council members later determine that the projects should be completed, Washington C.H. residents would have to pay an estimated $6 million over the next 25 years. A federal grant would provide $18 million for a total project cost which is estimated at $24 million.

In order to pay for the project, the anticipated sewage rate for Washington C.H. residents would have to be three times the current rate during the 25-year period.

As if these staggering figures were not enough to cause concern, some members of city council have questioned whether the estimates are accurate. They contend that the cost to residents would actually be much higher than the estimate given.

In spite of the fact that Council retained the services of C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., of Worthington, at a cost of $25,000 to prepare the estimates of some of the same Council members are now disputing their calculations.

Obviously, some agreement on the accuracy of the estimates must be reached before an intelligent decision on the project can be made.

At least one area resident has taken it upon himself to become familiar with the project, and he is in a unique position to criticize the finding. That person is Don Conley of Gale Helms and Associates, Inc., a Washington C.H. engineering consulting firm.

See related story on page 11 of today's edition

Conley is quick to point out that he has not viewed the project outline "professionally." In order to do so would take several weeks of concentrated research. But he has investigated the firm's calculations much more closely than the average citizen.

His summation of the proposed project cost is that "if anything, it seems to be high." He said that the cost estimates for construction are well above the actual cost for construction at present. He notes that construction would not begin for approximately five years and inflation is difficult to project, but there seems to be a sufficient margin of safety in the firm's calculations.

All things considered, Conley feels the project can be constructed for the $24 million figure — or less. He added that the city's consulting engineers are following a common engineering procedure by estimating at the high end of the cost range. As a representative of Bird and Bull explained at last week's public meeting, he would rather see the actual cost be below the estimate than higher.

To determine test for sanity

Would-be assassin slated for hearing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 45-year-old mother charged with firing a shot at President Ford as he left a downtown hotel faces a hearing today to determine whether her sanity should be tested. A Marine veteran deflected the gun and the President was not hurt.

Sara Jane Moore, 45, a one-time paid informer for the FBI with connections to various Bay Area radical groups, was seized Monday after she fired a .38-caliber revolver at Ford. It was the second attempt on Ford's life in 17 days.

Police said Mrs. Moore, a plump, greying blonde, had been picked up by officers with a .44-caliber revolver in her hand Sunday and interrogated by the Secret Service because her name appeared on a "questionable list" of persons believed possible threats to the President. The gun was confiscated and she was released.

The President had been waving to thousands of cheering spectators outside the St. Francis Hotel when the shot rang out like a firecracker about 35 feet away.

Secret Service agents quickly pushed him into his bullet-proof limousine, where he crouched below window level as the motorcade raced off at top speed for the airport with sirens wailing.

Presidential adviser Donald Rumsfeld said later in Washington that Ford was not wearing a bullet proof vest. He first appeared in one during a public appearance in New Hampshire, a few days after Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme pulled a gun two feet from him in Sacramento, Calif., on Sept. 5. The gun did not fire.

Police said Mrs. Moore, a plump, greying blonde, had been picked up by officers with a .44-caliber revolver in her hand Sunday and interrogated by the Secret Service because her name appeared on a "questionable list" of persons believed possible threats to the President. The gun was confiscated and she was released.

The President had been waving to thousands of cheering spectators outside the St. Francis Hotel when the shot rang out like a firecracker about 35 feet away.

Secret Service agents quickly pushed him into his bullet-proof limousine, where he crouched below window level as the motorcade raced off at top speed for the airport with sirens wailing.

Presidential adviser Donald Rumsfeld said later in Washington that Ford was not wearing a bullet proof vest. He first appeared in one during a public appearance in New Hampshire, a few days after Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme pulled a gun two feet from him in Sacramento, Calif., on Sept. 5. The gun did not fire.

Militance marks teacher strikes

By The Associated Press

Mounting militancy continued to mark teacher strikes today, with teachers facing charges in Wilmington, Del., and Pawtucket and Woonsocket, R.I., while a Boston walkout entered its tenth day.

In Oklahoma City, federal authorities assured parents that students would be protected at Grant High School, where a white pupil was killed last week during court-ordered integration. Teachers and FBI agents searched student lockers Monday for weapons.

The bitter Wilmington walkout showed no signs of abating, as teachers faced arrest for picketing a school administration building.

Wilmington Federation of Teachers leaders said the arrest of 250 teachers Monday for defying an antipicketing court order would not deter them from continuing to strike the 14,000-student system until a contract settlement is reached.

In Rhode Island, 14 Pawtucket and Woonsocket teachers were still in jail for contempt of court in a 20-day strike.

Negotiations in the walkouts, plus a third in Tiverton, were stalemated, leaving 1,300 teachers on strike and 22,000 students out of class.

At Watertown, Conn., 250 teachers remained out of class, cancelling classes. Other walkouts continued in California, New Jersey, New York state, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Striking New Bedford, Mass., teachers said they would return to classes today after voting to submit their contract dispute with the school committee to binding arbitration.

Proposed energy corporation would take unusual risks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's proposed $100-billion government energy corporation would speed new energy production by taking on the financial risks private enterprise can't or won't take, a key administration official says.

Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb, expanding on Ford's proposal, said in an interview Monday that the proposed corporation would be authorized to invest Treasury funds or borrowed funds, up to $100 billion, in projects to demonstrate the commercial feasibility of new energy resources.

Ford, addressing a meeting of construction union members in San Francisco, announced Monday his intention to seek congressional ap-

Gas mileage rises on new models

DETROIT (AP) — The Big Three automakers say smaller engines, increased use of catalysts and better engineering account for improvements in gas mileage reported by the Environmental Protection Agency for 1976 cars.

The EPA said Monday its tests show General Motors Corp.'s new mini-car, the Chevrolet Chevette, gets the best gasoline mileage of any new U.S. model.

At 33 miles per gallon, the Chevette is tied with two Japanese models, the Datsun B-210 and the Subaru, for the most efficient use of fuel.

GM cars averaged 16.6 miles per gallon, up 8 per cent from 1975 models and 38 per cent from 1974. Ford Motor Co. cars averaged 17.3 miles per gallon, up 27.5 per cent from 1975 and 21.8 per cent from 1974.

Chrysler Corp. averaged 16.4 miles per gallon, up 5.5 per cent from 1975 and 19.7 per cent from 1974.

American Motors was alone in showing a decline in gas mileage, averaging 18.3 miles per gallon, down

3.5 per cent from 1975 but up 11.6 per cent over 1974.

The new model cars — foreign and domestic — averaged a theoretical 17.6 miles per gallon, compared to 15.6 miles to the gallon last year and 13.9 miles in 1974, the EPA announced. That means gas mileage improved 12.8 per cent from 1975 and 26.4 per cent from two years ago.

Most of the progress resulted from installation of catalytic converters on more models to reduce exhaust pollution, according to EPA Administrator Russell E. Train.

Ford, which showed the greatest improvement in gas mileage, is installing converters on all 1976 cars, compared to having converters on only 65 per cent of the 1975 cars.

A Ford spokesman said the use of catalysts improved gas mileage. Smaller engines also were factors in better fuel mileage for the Ford Maverick and Ford Granada, the company said.

Refinements in engineering, new engines and introduction of smaller cars like the Chevette accounted for GM's increase in gas mileage, a spokesman said.

"This is convincing evidence that the free marketplace is working to meet both the nation's goals and the public's personal transportation — more efficiently and more effectively than could arbitrary legislation," said E. M. Estes, GM president.

The improvements brought the auto industry more than halfway toward President Ford's target of a 40 per cent increase in gas mileage by 1980.

The EPA emphasizes its test results do not guarantee the same fuel economy in on-the-road driving. Actual fuel economy varies, depending on each motorist's style of driving and condition of his or her car and engine.

Concerning the cost to consumers, Conley had little comment. He said he had not done a study of the amount of industrial use and therefore was not in a position to criticize Bird's cost estimate to homeowners. He did say that he had found no reason to doubt their projected cost to homeowners, and had never heard any adverse comment concerning the firm's reliability.

If the engineers studied the water use figures from the Ohio Water Service Co. and based the cost to homeowners on the amount of water flow (as Bird explained that he did at the public meeting), he would have no reason to doubt their figures, he added.

One criticism offered by Council member John E. Rhoads at the public meeting was the amount of population growth projected by Bird. Conley said he had seen no information in that area.

His comments concerning population growth for the area were limited. First, he stated that his own projection of the population for Washington C.H. by the year 2000. This figure is considerably lower than Bird's prediction outlined at the public meeting.

He said that although he sees definite growth of Union Township and surrounding land in the county, he did not see a tremendous increase in population within the corporation limit itself.

However, Conley added that acquisition of one major plant such as Westinghouse or General Motors could change the entire complexion of the city.

He noted that installation of such a sewer system would certainly make Washington C.H. more attractive to industrial and residential developers, but that progress is historically slow. It might be several years after the completion of the project before industry of developers became interested, he warned.

Another aspect of the upcoming decision is the extent to which the city will be obligated if it decides to continue investigating the sewer proposal by seeking detailed plans of the project.

Conley noted that a three-part process is normally used in connection with federal grants. First a preliminary plan of the project is outlined. This is the part already completed by the Worthington company.

During the second phase, a detailed set of plans is drawn up, detailed cost estimates are made, and bids are let.

The third phase is the actual construction.

Rhoads has stated that if Council enters into an agreement with Bird for phase two, the city will automatically be obligated to continue with the construction of the facilities.

A representative of Bird had stated that city will not be obligated beyond the drawing of the detailed plans.

Conley said although he was not aware of all the legal aspects of the project, he found it unreasonable to think the city could become obligated to construction before it had a detailed cost estimate.

The preliminary plans involve rough estimates, he said. He went on to explain that this is all that is possible at this point. The purpose of formulating the detailed plans is to give the city a very accurate estimate of the project cost.

Conley concluded by saying that the city must do something to correct its sewage disposal system, and that whatever is done will greatly increase the present sewer rates.

He added that the combined sanitary-storm system is outdated, and Council's selection of a project which separates the system seems reasonable.

Whether the proposal presented by Bird is the best possible solution to the city's sewage problem is something Washington C.H. residents and their elected officials will have to determine in the near future.

Man claims he shot 30 persons

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The man accused of killing school integration planner Dr. Charles Glatt has told Dayton police he shot "25 to 30 blacks" over the past four years, authorities said in an affidavit.

Chief Grover O'Connor emphasized the remarks of Neal Long, 48, a service station attendant, who have not been checked out. Long is being held in Montgomery County jail for the Sept. 19 slaying of Glatt.

Police used Long's statement in an affidavit to search his apartment. O'Connor said he didn't know the affidavit would be released to the news media by the clerk's office.

According to an inventory list filed in Dayton Municipal Court, police recovered a 12-gauge shotgun, a .22 caliber pistol and a quantity of ammunition.

A hit-and-run gunman, firing a shotgun from an automobile, has killed seven blacks since 1972. Several others have been injured. Two were shot to death within 15 minutes of each other July 15.

Stock prices

move lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed lower again today in a continuation of the profit taking that set in Monday.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off about a point, and losers outnumbered gainers by about a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted little in the economic news to prompt selling.

But they said it appeared traders had been discouraged by the market's failure to extend last week's rally in activity Monday.

Today's early prices included Honeywell, down 7/8 at 28 1/4; Transamerica Corp., down 1/4 at 7 1/2; Pacific Gas & Electric, off 1/8 at 19 1/2, and RCA 3/8 lower at 16 3/4.

Analysts noted little in the economic news to prompt selling.

But they said it appeared traders had been discouraged by the market's failure to extend last week's rally in activity Monday.

"They carried her bodily through the crowd," said Joseph K.P. Armin, a Jaycees chauffeur in the presidential motorcade. "They had to, the crowd was so hostile. The crowd was ready to lunge at her themselves." Several persons yelled "Kill the bastard!" as police led the captive away.

"They'll be damned surprised if they come up with anything," Anderson said Monday.

The nationally syndicated columnist said the CIA called his office in Washington on Monday and "offered to fully cooperate ... in getting to the bottom of this."

A CIA official in Washington verified Anderson's disclosure and said: "The agency has advised the Justice Department that if they wish to undertake an investigation, the CIA will offer its full assistance."

Anderson, questioning the sincerity of the offer, said: "CIA people by nature cover up. I wouldn't expect them to uncover for my benefit."

Opinion And Comment

Why did she do it?

The jackpot question about Patricia Hearst is: Why did she do it? Why did this daughter of privilege, kidnapped by members of the wildly radical Symbionese Liberation Army, reject her family and run with the SLA pack?

Many Americans feel a residual sympathy for Patty Hearst despite her alleged implication in crimes of violence and terror as a purported revolutionary. Many cling to the idea that this archetypical nice girl, whose most radical act before the kidnapping probably was her rejection of the debutante role, was somehow "brainwashed" by her captors. There is the lingering thought that all may not be set to rights, with Patty revealed at last as a victim who will in due time resume a useful or at least inconspicuous role in society.

This attitude ignores the fact that the young woman so unspectacularly arrested by the FBI must stand trial on very serious charges. "Brainwashed" or not, she bears the responsibility and must answer to these charges.

Still, one comes back to that intriguing mystery: What is it that brought about this striking change in her nature and outlook on society? In any case - that is, whether or not this change came through her own volition - she is a victim. The hows and whys of it are still unknown. What has been revealed merely whets curiosity about the elements that make up one of the most bizarre cases in American history.

A WORD EDGEWISE.... By John P. Roche

Imperiling our own interests

Over the years whenever I have written a column about Arab-Israeli relations, I have received a fair amount of quite nasty mail. Because of my strong support for Israel, readers have made all sorts of personal accusations, ranging from my living off the Zionist slush-fund to changing my name from Rosenbloom (or, once, Rothschild!). The first charge merits no printable reply. As far as the second is concerned, there is a problem: according to my father's baptismal certificate, Walter John Roche was the son of Nicholas Roach and Mary Roche. Maybe the Roachs lived down by the gashouse or on the wrong side of the tracks — in any event, Dad stuck with Roche. Needless to add, if my name had been Rothschild, rather than changing it, I would have tried to borrow money from my relatives.

My recent column on the Kissinger interim settlement, suggesting that it was at best a mirage, at worst a fraud, have triggered a different response from concerned readers. They haven't called me nasty names; they have asked why, if all the leading spokesmen for American Judaism have given their support, I should try to throw a monkeywrench into the works? Or, alternatively, why, if the Israeli government has agreed, I should substitute my judgment for that of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin?

This can be answered on two levels. First of all, my concern is American national interest. Whatever Rabin or the Knesset may think, whether they believe it the greatest diplomatic coup since the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, in no way detracts from my conviction that 1) the survival of Israel is in the American national interest, and 2) the Kissinger deal imperils our national interest in Israeli survival. My viewpoint is not based on an opinion poll of American Jews, or anyone else.

But there is another level of analysis with far more disturbing implications for both Americans and Israelis. Here

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Talk controversial issues over in a business-like, objective fashion, not permitting personalities to enter the fray. Pay no attention to those who have proved unreliable in the past.

When not sure, don't act! Wait until all facts are in, and KNOW what they stand for. Situations could deceive if you are not alert.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a warm and outgoing personality; are creatively inclined and highly idealistic. Your tact, courtesy and gentle manners are outstanding, as are your foresightedness and integrity. Extremely versatile, there are many fields from which you can choose a career — which is bound to be highly successful — but in either statesmanship or art you will find your true metier. Other fields open to you: the law, medicine, governmental work.

Taft and solons seek train service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, and three Ohio congressmen have asked Amtrak Corp. to begin day train service to Canton, Crestline and Lima.

Reps. John M. Ashbrook, Tennyson Guyer and Ralph S. Regula, all Ohio Republicans, joined Taft in a letter to Amtrak president Paul Reistrup requesting the service.

Taft noted that he tried to get day train service established on the route last March but Roger Lewis, then-Amtrak president, said Amtrak did not have enough sufficient passenger cars.

The joint letter noted that Amtrak is receiving the first of 700 new cars.

"With the new Amcars arriving, there is a pool of additional equipment," the legislators said. "We strongly believe that one of the best possible uses for this equipment would be on a daylight run ..."

Reagan in state Thursday

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Republican chairman doesn't regard former California Gov. Ronald Reagan's visit to the Dayton area Thursday a trip into the state "for the party's right wing."

Chairman Kent B. McGough said he understands the conservative presidential prospect was invited by a local group, and that he thinks it would like to see the ticket headed by Reagan.

The sometimes GOP maverick even said he could support Reagan and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, should they decide to team up on a third party ticket.

Reagan may have some support within the ranks of the feuding Ohio Federation of Republican Women. Its president, Louis Leggat of Willoughby, resigned recently, accusing state party leaders of trying to stack the women's organization with "Rockefeller liberals."

McGough denied the charge emphatically, calling the federation problems "an internal squabble. I don't know anything about it."

2 pounds ground pork
1½ cups chopped onion
20-ounce can crushed pineapple, undrained
¼ cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons salt
2 teaspoons dry mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
2 tablespoons soy sauce
½ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons flour
Pastry for a 2-crust 10-inch pie

In a large skillet brown pork and onion, drain off excess drippings. Stir in the remaining ingredients for filling except green pepper and flour; simmer until no liquid is visible — 30 minutes; stir in green pepper and flour. Turn into pastry-lined 10-inch pie plate; adjust top crust and make numerous vents; trim, flute and seal edge. Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until lightly browned — 25 to 35 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

Weight Watchers honor member

Kate Trefz of Rt. 1, Greenfield, Ohio is a 'new' woman. That's the way she likes it now and she hopes she will never go back to being the "other Kate" she used to be.

Though she has been overweight

most of her life, a few years ago her weight was such a burden to her that entitled her to membership in the exclusive Weight Watchers Centurian Club, for those members who have lost at least 100 pounds. More meaningful than that to Kate however, is her Lifetime Membership. She has maintained her goal weight for several years now, and was honored for this at last Tuesday's regular Weight Watchers meeting at Grace Methodist in Washington C.H.

Kate decided to join a local Weight Watchers class, without much hope, but determined to give it a try. The weekly weigh-in and the fellow-members sharing the same experiences, together with the Weight Watchers eating program proved to be the winning combination. Besides that, her husband Rodney and the rest of the family gave her encouragement and moral support.

In 16 months Kate had lost 101 pounds and was below her Weight Watchers goal! Such a change does not go unnoticed and friends who hadn't seen her for awhile were doing "double-takes" when they met her.

Weight Watchers Cincinnati Area Director Adrienne Levine noticed too and sent Kate the following telegram:

"Congratulations on your outstanding achievement on the Weight Watchers program. Everyone associated with this organization is proud of you. I am sure your fellow classmates as well as your leader Margie Soldan are as thrilled for you as we are. Your great accomplishment will be a marvelous incentive for all our members. We wish you success as you successfully maintain the goal you worked so hard to achieve. Sincerely, Adrienne Levine."

Kate's wonderful weight loss has also

"Lifetime Membership doesn't mean a lifetime of dieting," Kate explained.

"It just means that I have a responsibility to get weighed-in at least once a month and meet with people who understand when the going gets rough. I guess you could say my goal now is a lifetime of slimness."

FULL TEXT OF AMENDMENTS TO THE OHIO CONSTITUTION PROPOSED BY INITIATIVE PETITION TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE VOTERS AT THE GENERAL ELECTION, NOVEMBER 4, 1975, WITH ARGUMENTS IN FAVOR AND ARGUMENTS IN OPPOSITION TO EACH.

ISSUE 2
AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Proposed by Initiative Petition

Constitutional Amendment

Be it resolved by the people of the State of Ohio:

It is hereby declared to be a proper public purpose and the public policy of this state to encourage and assist in the construction of new industrial plants, the utilization of existing unused industrial plants, the replacement, modernization and addition of capital equipment in existing industrial plants, the retention of such plants in the state, and the revitalization of cities; and it is hereby determined that the operation of this section and laws enacted and regulations adopted pursuant to this section will directly and indirectly and encourage and assist the aforesaid purposes and create preserve jobs, enhance employment opportunities, alleviate unemployment and improve the economic welfare, health and safety of the people of the state.

As used in this section "existing industrial plant or plants" means: buildings, structures or facilities which are used for one or more of the purposes stated in clause (A) of the preceding paragraph but which do not qualify as new industrial plants under the preceding paragraph. Laws shall be passed to provide for treating a new industrial plant as an existing industrial plant under this section after termination of the tax exemptions and exclusions applicable to it as a new industrial plant.

As used in this section "area of critical need" means one or more areas within a municipal corporation determined by the board herein created to have critical need for new industrial plant development to create jobs, to utilize areas determined by the board to be based upon relevant criteria including one or more of the following: the level of unemployment, the concentration of low and moderate income persons and families and those receiving public assistance in, or within reasonable and economic commuting distance from, the area, the degree of physical deterioration or functional obsolescence of buildings and structures or the need for redevelopment in the area.

With respect to each new industrial plant there shall be exempted and excluded for the period of exemption and exclusion: from the base or measure of corporate franchise taxes imposed by the state, the income and the value of capital, surplus, undivided profits and reserves, net worth, or any other base or measure for such taxes, of the business entity operating such new industrial plant, unless applicable or affordable to this state to the extent such an allocation, apportionable or attributable to such new industrial plant, from income taxes imposed by the state, the income of the new industrial plant, from all ad valorem property taxes, the tangible personal property which is used or held for use at such plant or produced at such plant while held by the operator of such plant, and one-half the assessed value of the improvements on land comprising such new industrial plant if located within an area of critical need. Laws enacted pursuant to this section shall not be subject to referendum and, unless otherwise provided therein, shall go into immediate effect.

ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Businesses which provided thousands of jobs for Ohioans in the past have been driven away from Ohio by tax burdens taxes. Ohio now ranks fourth in the nation in taxes on industry. Unless we reverse that trend, more jobs will be lost as industry moves out.

This proposed amendment, if approved by the people, will say to industry: "We want you here in Ohio. We want jobs for our people."

But this proposal goes much farther. It is a common sense approach to bringing jobs to depressed areas such as inner cities and poor rural areas.

Here's how it works:

1. Manufacturing industries bringing new jobs into Ohio will be granted a 15-year moratorium on the tangible personal property and franchise taxes imposed by the state. The tax base will be exempt half the improved value of their real estate from taxation. And in depressed areas, these incentives will run for 30 years instead of 15 years.

Other programs have failed. It is time to try jobs. Some existing Ohio manufacturing industries need desperately to modernize in order to keep working people on the job. To encourage them, the amendment will allow them to exempt half the increase in value of their machinery each year from the tangible personal property tax and the corporate franchise tax.

Local government will lose no money as a result of this amendment. In fact, with more people working instead of being on welfare and unemployment compensation, the tax base in Ohio for schools and other government functions will be stronger than ever.

This proposed amendment is nothing new. It is the same as the method being used by southern states as they systematically rob Ohio of industry and jobs. It is time for Ohio to stop this exodus of industry. This amendment will accomplish that goal.

Committee for the Amendment: Thomas J. Moyer, A.G. Lancione, Charles F. Kurless, Michael J. Malone, Robert T. Secret.

Passage of Issue 2 WILL RAISE YOUR TAXES. ISSUE 2 WILL RAISE YOUR PROPERTY TAXES.

The issue proposes to exclude any new, expanding or modernizing manufacturing industry from all ad valorem property taxes, and one half of new real property taxes for 30 years in "critical areas" and 15 years otherwise. These same industries will require significant increases in city services and schools which your property taxes support. While big business pays lower taxes, who pays for higher property taxes? YOU DO!

ISSUE 2 WILL RAISE YOUR STATE INCOME TAX.

The issue proposes to exclude these same industries from state corporate franchise taxes on income, capital, surplus, undivided profits, reserves, and net worth attributable to the new facility. As costs for state services increase, these industries will be excluded from paying their fair share. When industry quits paying, who makes up the lost revenues? YOU DO!

ISSUE 2 CANNOT GUARANTEE NEW JOBS.

Ohio has the second largest energy curtailment in the nation. In view of this energy crisis there is little chance of new industry locating in Ohio as a result of these incentives.

The greater danger is for existing industries to use these tax incentives to expand or modernize their facilities, and thereby qualify to be excluded from such taxes in such district for the then preceding tax year. The taxpayer shall be entitled to pay such new capital equipment, but only to the extent it represents such increase, listed and assessed in such first tax year and each tax year thereafter at a tax value which is one-half the tax value at which such new capital equipment otherwise would be listed and assessed for ad valorem taxes for each such tax year, such reduced rate of assessment being herein called the capital incentive rate. Provided, however, if the true value of all capital equipment, including all new capital equipment, of the taxpayer throughout the state has not increased for the then current tax year over the true value of all capital equipment of the taxpayer throughout the state for the then preceding tax year, the taxpayer shall be entitled to have the capital incentive rate applied in the current tax year or any subsequent tax year to any new capital equipment first required to be listed and assessed in any taxing district in such current year. Provided, further, if the net increase of the true value of all capital equipment of the taxpayer throughout the state over the preceding tax year is less than the sum of the increases over the preceding tax year in all taxing districts in which such increases occurred, the amount of the true value of such new capital equipment first required to be listed and assessed for the current tax year in each taxing district eligible for the capital incentive rate in the current tax year and each subsequent tax year shall be only that portion thereof as results from multiplying the amount of increase in such district by a fraction the numerator of which is such net increase throughout the state and the denominator of which is the sum of the increases in the taxing districts in which such increases occurred. For purposes of determining the value of its issued and outstanding shares of stock or for purposes of determining the numerator and denominator of any property factor used in allocating or apportioning to this state income or the value of capital, surplus, undivided profits and reserves or net worth.

For purposes of the preceding paragraph, "capital equipment" means all tangible personal property, other than inventory, used in or at an existing industrial plan, and "new capital equipment" means capital equipment, not previously used, acquired by the taxpayer after May 15, 1975; "taxpayer" means the entity which used the capital equipment in or at an existing industrial plant; and "true value" means the true value determined by or pursuant to law for ad valorem tax purposes.

Laws shall be passed and regulations adopted hereunder to define and prescribe further new industrial plants, existing industrial plants, areas of critical need, commencement of construction, commencement of operations, income of the new industrial plant, and provide other definitions, make other provisions and establish procedures necessary for the purposes of this section.

There is hereby created, as an agency of the state, a board to be known as the Ohio Industrial Incentives Board, to consist of nine members, including a chairman, as follows: seven members, including the chairman, no more than four of whom shall be members of the same political party, shall be appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the senate, and two members, who may but need not be members of the general assembly and each of whom shall be a member of a different political party than the other, shall be appointed by the general assembly. Three members of the board first appointed shall continue in office for terms first expiring on January 1, 1979, three members of the board first appointed shall continue in office for terms first expiring on January 1, 1982, and three members of the board first appointed shall continue in office for terms first expiring on January 1, 1985. The term of each member first appointed shall be designated by the governor at the time of appointment. The successor of each such member shall be appointed for a term of nine years, except that any person appointed to fill a vacancy shall be appointed to serve only for the unexpired term. A member of the board shall be eligible for reappointment. The compensation of the chairman and other members of the board shall be determined as provided by law. The general assembly shall appropriate moneys to provide for the cost and expenses of the board.

Sander given death penalty

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — Robert Paul Sander, urging the judge to "carry on" with the sentencing, has been sentenced to death in the gas chamber for five sniper slayings at a Smith River motel.

The 23-year-old former Cincinnati department store employee took the sentence sitting down Monday, refusing the judge's order to stand in the Shasta County Superior Court.

Sander, who had remained silent during his trial and when the verdicts were returned, spoke for the first time when Judge Frank Petersen asked him to stand.

"No, I will not," said the bearded defendant.

Petersen then asked if there was a legal reason why he should not impose sentence, mandatory death for mass

This section or any action hereunder does not in any way reduce the authority of political subdivisions to levy taxes or incur bonded indebtedness, nor does it affect section 5a or section 9 of Article XII of this Constitution.

The excise taxes levied by this section shall cease on the thirtieth day after the receipt by the General Assembly of such final report.

ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT

This amendment will provide the boldest approach ever taken by government to clean up blight in Ohio's cities and villages, and to attack the problems of unemployment. The program is a big answer to big problems.

The most important feature is a series of direct grants to Ohio cities and villages for cleanup and downtown improvement programs. The money can be used for any worthwhile purpose. Possible uses include building of athletic or convention facilities, senior citizen centers, tree-planting, parks and green spaces and parking.

All projects will be initiated at the local level by local elected officials.

But the city renovation is only the beginning. Other features include:

- $200 million to clean up depressed areas of Ohio.

- $150 million to develop energy resources in Ohio to keep Ohio plants open.

- $100 million to build research and treatment hospitals in Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo and Cleveland.

- $40 million to expand open heart surgery capacity at the Cleveland Clinic, to make this treatment available to the average working Ohioan.

- $275 million to develop top rate ports along Lake Erie and the Ohio River to open new trade horizons for the state.

- $75 million for state park facilities, including lodges within 30 minutes of the three largest cities.

- $50 million for safe drinking water projects.

- $100 million to complete Ohio's vocational education system to make our young people productive citizens.

- $50 million for trash resource recovery projects.

- $7 million to upgrade Ohio's penal institutions.

- $145 million for needed additional state government facilities including regional office buildings.

- The projects will be paid by a $275 billion bond note, which will be repaid by .7 of one cent increase — less than 1 per cent — in the state sales tax.

- The holiday honors the nation's military veterans.

Vets Day back to Nov. 11 in '78

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Ford has signed legislation returning Veterans Day to Nov. 11 beginning in 1978.

The new law, which a White House spokesman said Ford signed last weekend, ends the practice established by Congress of celebrating the holiday on the last Monday of October.

The holiday honors the nation's military veterans.

NOV. 11 IN '78

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Unfavorable weather last week slowed the progress of fall plowing, seeding and harvesting in Indiana.

Purdue University agriculture experts say nevertheless most farm activity is still ahead of the averages.

Purdue's weekly crop report shows nearly 85 per cent of the corn crop mature with less than 5 per cent harvested. Soybean combining is nearly 5 per cent complete.

ISSUE 5 IS TOO EXPENSIVE.

Issue 5 proposes to place Ohioans in debt to the tune of $5.83 billion for an unwieldy and unplanned program with all the earmarks of a pork barrel promising something for nothing to everyone.

EACH OHIO FAMILY WILL HAVE TO PAY $150 IN ADDITIONAL TAXES FOR THIS PROGRAM.

The cost of Ohio's present bond debt, coupled with those we will incur, is a loss to the General Revenue Fund of more than half a billion dollars each year—a vast sum that could have been applied to improve existing state services or reduce your tax burdens.

ISSUE 5 BENEFITS ONLY THOSE PEOPLE WHO ARE LEAST AFFECTED BY REGRESSIVE TAXES.

Issue 5 as a sales tax increase is most harmful to those persons of moderate and low income who can least afford the additional tax burden.

The people who benefit from these issues are the people who will be buying the bonds, and sharing in the more than $5 billion in interest which YOU and every working man and woman in Ohio will be paying over the next 30 years.

ISSUE 5 CREATES A PERMANENT DEBT FOR TEMPORARY JOBS.

Issue 5 will place future generations in serious debt while creating only a minimal number of temporary new jobs; jobs which will last at the most for only a year or two.

Ohio cannot afford to go into debt to create a few jobs for programs of questionable value.

VOTE NO ON ISSUE 5.

Coast guard probes raft deaths

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Life preservers worn by two of the three Zodiac raft drowning victims do not meet U.S. Coast Guard specifications for use on passenger-carrying vessels, according to a Coast Guard officer.

The two life preservers and others issued to an undisclosed number of passengers on the ill-fated Niagara River whitewater run were of a type restricted for use in recreational vessels, Lt. Cmdr. J. P. Foley said.

Foley heads a Coast Guard investigation of the Aug. 29 accident in which a 37-foot inflated raft with 29 persons aboard capsized in the lower rapids of the Niagara. Three of the passengers drowned and 20 others were treated for injuries.

"Wes Hill and his cousin Ken Slaggett helped us bring in the body. It was David Ross. The life preserver looked small for the man," Edwards said.

Hill said: "There just wasn't enough flotation. I could hold it under the water

"I wouldn't like to have to make a personal test of any jacket down there," Foley said.

Frank Edwards, manager of Niagara Helicopters of Niagara Falls, Canada, participated in the rescue operation in which some survivors were actually plucked from the river by small hovering helicopters.

Edwards said he saw one man wearing a lifejacket go under in the whirlpool. Later that night Edwards located the body.

"Wes Hill and his cousin Ken Slaggett helped us bring in the body. It was David Ross. The life preserver looked small for the man," Edwards said.

"When we pulled him out, the jacket was all up around his neck," said Slaggett. "You could see it was too small for a man like him. He was a big fellow, probably weighed more than 200 lbs."

Hill said: "There just wasn't enough flotation. I could hold it under the water with one hand. It was a particularly poor one. A tag on the jacket said it wasn't to be used by commercial vessels carrying passengers for hire."

The type of jacket worn by Ross was made from bright red or yellow nylon filled with kapok. They were made to U.S. non-commercial specifications by Kent Sporting Co. of New London, Ohio.

Most passengers were issued small craft jackets made of heavy cotton drill and filled with kapok. They are bulky and fit around the head like a keyhole photographs taken Aug. 29 show. They were manufactured to stricter Canadian non-commercial standards by the John Leckie Marine Supply Co. of Toronto, Canada.

The raft's owner, Niagara River Gorge Trips Inc. of Toronto, had planned to establish a thrill ride for $20 a head. The fatal voyage was the eleventh in a series of experimental runs through the lower rapids several miles downstream from Niagara Falls.

Controlling board defers most action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Democrat-dominated State Controlling Board has delayed until next Monday action in a mounting dispute over the layoff of Democratic employees by the Republican Rhodes administration.

Also deferred by the board Monday, at a special meeting on several controversial problems, was a $4 million rent bill for agencies in the new State Office Tower.

Instead, the board devoted the entire day to a long series of requests by various departments and agencies to delay the payment of bills carried over from the fiscal year that ended June 30.

Under new language in the 1975-1977 budget bill, the board must approve such extensions. The Office of Budget and Management, previously had that authority.

Already under board consideration is a request for release of $8 million to prevent further layoffs in the natural resources and taxation departments. A resolution adopted by the legislature, also controlled by Democrats, earmarked those layoff prevention funds from a nearly depleted $18.8 million emergency fund.

However, the board received another request Monday from the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation for $2.1 million to prevent further layoffs and transfers in that department.

Director Dr. Timothy Moritz said the release of that amount would forestall further belt tightening in the department until February.

Republicans maintain the layoffs came about as a result of budget cuts by the legislature as well as an executive order by Gov. James A. Rhodes. Democrats assert the estimated 1,500 employees released so far are members of their party who fell victim to a GOP patronage maneuver — some in violation of civil service statutes.

The board also is expected to act next week on a request for $897 million to finance the consumer protection division in the Department of Commerce. The division is unfunded as a result of the legislature's budget cuts, said Charles Rhoads, deputy director.

At the same time, Democratic Atty. Gen. William J. Brown is asking the board for $250,000 in emergency funds in order to reinstate consumer complaint activities he said have been abandoned by the commerce department.

Pending to try to force the director to pay the full $30 million increase to homes.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State welfare director Raymond F. McKenna plans no immediate action concerning a threat by nursing home representatives to stop accepting Medicaid patients.

The Ohio Health Care Association said Monday notices were sent to about 1,000 Ohio nursing homes recommending that they refuse welfare patients because of the state's failure to fully implement subsidy increases called for in the new budget.

"I think we'll just have to wait and see," McKenna said Monday. "It will probably take several weeks before we know (the situation)."

McKenna said the legislature had mandated increases in state Medicare reimbursements in drawing up the 1975-77 budget, but funded his department $30 million below the new level.

Consequently, McKenna instituted with August payments a pro-rata reduction to the homes which are for about 28,000 welfare recipients.

McKenna points out that the homes are still receiving about $34 million more than they did in the biennium that ended June 30. He has all but given up hope of obtaining the additional $30 million from the legislature.

The Ohio Health Care Association, the Nursing Home Coalition, and the Ohio Philanthropical Homes for the Aging announced the new policy Friday. There was no immediate indication as to whether any homes were complying.

McKenna said if the threat were carried out on a large scale, the state might withdraw support from its $147 million share in the nursing home program. The state pays about 46 percent of the Medicaid cost, compared to a 54 percent federal outlay.

However, McKenna said problems over admittance for Medicaid patients would probably be dealt with on an individual basis with the homes in question.

Meanwhile, two court suits are Autumn officially began today in Ohio, but cool fallish weather has persisted for the past week or more. The outlook is for temperatures to remain below normal for the rest of the week.

Highs Monday ranged from only 55 near Ashtabula to 62 in Cincinnati, and about the same can be expected today.

Ohio is on the northern fringe of the rain associated with Hurricane Eloise but weather in the state has been generally cloudy to partly cloudy with a little rain in the extreme southern tip.

Fair and cool Thursday through Saturday. Highs in the 60s, lows in the 40s.

As unheralded Seatrain was sweeping to a win in the Little Brown Jug Friday at the Delaware County Fairgrounds, another pacer was resting up after turning in his best time ever in the day's first race.

Returnee, a two-year-old owned by Charles Ellis of Sabina, paced the mile in 2:05 with Rick Kelley of Rt. 4 Washington C.H. in the sulky.

Kelley, who also trains Returnee, has driven the two-year-old to seven firsts, nine seconds and six thirds in just 26 starts this year.

The horse paid $17.00, $7.20 and $5.00 along with returning $509.00 as the first 17th of the Daily Double.

PORSCHE HIGH School grid team swept to an impressive 41-6 win over Chillicothe Friday which is a fact that should interest if not scare Washington C.H. football fans.

Portsmouth will be the first of the tough, final three Blue Lion grid games when they visit Gardner Park October 24. Washington C.H. will then meet Circleville and Miami Trace on the road.

The Trojans racked up 266 yards on the ground thanks to the running of seniors Tony Pack and Danny White while junior quarterback Norm Burrows threw for 92 yards and one touchdown against the Cavaliers.

Statistically, the Trojans did much better than the Blue Lions a week ago against Chillicothe, so coach Maurice Pfeifer's crew will have their work cut out for them next month.

Incidentally, Portsmouth was able to stop everybody, but Mike Fairrow Friday as the Cavalier split end hauled in his fourth touchdown pass of the season. His three receptions gave him 178 yards on eight catches which is the most passing yardage by a Chillicothe player in four years.

Chillicothe will be looking for their first win of the season this Friday and they will have to look hard against Upper Arlington High School which is fresh from a 8-7 victory over Massillon.

PERRY HOSKINS, who was an all-SCOL defensive back and the leader of Circleville's almost undefeated cage team last season, is spending his time on the gridiron at the College of Wooster this season.

The freshmen is listed as a possible

starter at defensive safety for the Fighting Scots.

PROFESSIONAL HOCKEY will make its debut in Cincinnati next month when the Stingers begin their inaugural year in the World Hockey Association against such all-time greats as Gordie Howe and Bobby Hull.

The Stingers will hold a hockey clinic October 9 on their home ice at the new Riverfront Coliseum from 11 a.m. until noon.

Stingers players will demonstrate various aspects and techniques of the game to be followed at noon by a live broadcast of Bob Braun's 50-50 Club with players and coaches as guest.

For those fans, who can't wait for pro hockey to hit the area, two NHL teams will pair off this Saturday at Dayton Hara Arena. The Detroit Red Wings will meet the Washington Capitals on the home ice of the Dayton Gems.

The Gems have a working agreement with both NHL clubs and some ex-Dayton skaters will be on hand for the contest.

NFL pact remains unsettled

CHICAGO (AP) — A new contract proposal that relaxes the controversial Rozelle Rule and could cost the 26 club owners an estimated $30 million in new money over five years still has not brought about a National Football League labor peace.

representing the owners, made its latest proposal to the players union Monday, but daylong negotiations apparently have failed to resolve the wide differences between the two sides that have been prevalent in talks over the past 20 months.

Negotiations under the supervision of federal mediators continued today.

After the prolonged sessions, Sargent Karch, council executive director, said management had responded to a challenge by union president Kermit Alexander to make a final offer and give it's "best shot."

"We have today given our 'best shot,'" Karch told newsmen. "Like other unions, they would like to get the moon, everything they demand."

Pirates take NL East flag

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati pitcher Jack Billingham got into trouble in the first inning and the Reds never quite recovered as they lost to the Houston Astros 5-1 in National League baseball action Monday night.

Billingham, 15-10, allowed singles from Arthur Gardner and Rob Andrews, then Cesar Cedeno smacked his 13th homer of the season to put the Astros ahead 3-0.

Billingham blanked the Astros on three hits during the next five innings before being relieved by Will McEnaney, who walked McEnaney in the seventh and paved the way for Cliff Johnson to push the score to 5-0 with his 17th homer of the year.

The loss was Cincinnati's 53rd of the year, against 103 wins. The Reds have three more games against Houston and three at home against Atlanta before finishing the season.

Houston hurler Joe Niekro, 6-4, took the victory, but needed help in the ninth inning from Paul Siebert after loading the bases.

Neikro, who allowed the Reds only four hits in eight innings, says he has been pitching well since the All-Star break.

"I had pretty good stuff," Neikro said. "My elbow has been a little tender and I didn't have as much velocity as I usually do. But I was thankful I was able to go this far against a team like Cincinnati. I threw 55 to 60 per cent knuckle balls."

Neikro, who had given up only two hits going into the ninth, ran into trouble in that inning. Doug Flynn got an infield hit and Dave Concepcion followed with a single. Neikro hit Ken Griffey to load the bases and then walked Darrel Chaney to force in a run.

Siebert, a rookie, relieved. He struck out pinch hitter Tony Perez and got George Foster, also pinch hitting, to hit into a game-ending double play. That gained the young lefthander his first save of the season.

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark may not have been the only man in Three Rivers Stadium that didn't know his team was eliminated from the National League East race but he was the only one who admitted it.

"We aren't out of it if we win every game and they lose every game," insisted Ozark after Pittsburgh walloped the Phils 11-3. Told that his team was seven games back with just six to play, Ozark said, "That's news to me ... it's disheartening."

If Ozark wanted more confirmation he could have dropped by the Pirate clubhouse where the champagne was flowing and congratulations being exchanged all around.

"This is a great way to win a championship, beating the team that has been chasing you," said Pittsburgh then wrapped it up with five runs in the eighth.

Dave Parker and Richie Zisk drove in four runs each, Parker with two singles and his 23rd home run and Zisk with two singles and a double. Ozark tried to stem the tide with seven pitchers and the first one, Tom Underwood, 14-13, took the loss.

Bruce Kison, 12-11, and Tekulve teamed for a seven-hitter for Pittsburgh.

Next stop for the Bucs will be the NL pennant series against the Reds, who clinched the West Division weeks ago.

Padres 6, Dodgers 5

Hector Torres led off the 11th inning with a home run to give San Diego the victory, snapping the Padres six-game losing streak. San Diego tied it in the ninth on a two-out wild pitch by knuckleballer Charlie Hough.

Cardinals 6-5, Expos 4-8

Ted Simmons won the opener for St. Louis with a two-run homer in the 12th inning, snapping a five-game Montreal winning streak. The Cards tied it in the ninth on an error by Montreal first baseman Nate Colbert.

The Expos came back in the nightcap on the strength of Jim Lytle's two-run pinch single in the sixth.

Twins 2, A's 1

Minnesota left-hander Eddie Bane delayed Oakland's division clinching celebration, scattering seven hits before needing ninth-inning relief help from Bill Campbell and Tom Burmeier.

The Royals came close to eliminating themselves, rallying for two runs in the eighth to just nip Texas. George Brett hit a leadoff single and came home on Tony Solaita's RBI double to right. Al Cowens then singled to set up pinch-hitter Cookie Rojas' game-winning sacrifice fly.

Al Fitzmorris pitched an eight-hitter to raise his record to 16-11.

Angels 3, White Sox 0

Adrian Garrett smashed a three-run homer off Rich Gossage in the 16th inning to give California its marathon victory over the White Sox.

Indians 7, Brewers 6

Pinch hitter Oscar Gamble's two-run single in the bottom of the ninth lifted Cleveland past Milwaukee, which profited from two homers by George Scott.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Class AAA Cincinnati Moeller and Class AA Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary, two of The Associated Press' mythical state champions last season, seized the leads today in the first Ohio high school football ratings by a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Middleton Fenwick, second to McDonald in the final poll in 1974, claimed the No. 1 spot in the Class A ratings by a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

The leaders all have peeled off three straight victories to start the season.

Moeller, the first Cincinnati school ever to win the big school ratings' title, piled up the most points in any division this week. The Queen City power accumulated 156 points.

Two Warren strongboys, Western Reserve and Harding, claimed the next two Class AAA spots. Western Reserve earned 119 points, 12 ahead of Harding. Both are 3-0-0.

St. Vincent-St. Mary's margin was less formidable in Class AA. The leaders collected 95 points, 10 more than runnerup Circleville, also 3-0-0. Wheelersburg, riding a 28-game winning streak, was third, three points behind Circleville.

Canal Winchester, also cruising along with a 3-0-0 start, claimed the No. 3 position with 95 points.

Lancaster was fourth in Class AAA, followed, in order, by Newark, Zanesville, East Liverpool, Upper Arlington, Kettering Alter and Youngstown Mooney.

In Class AA, New Lexington, another ex-AP state champion, was fourth and then, in order, came Beloit West Branch, Minerva, Toronto, Ironton, Wellston and Cleveland Holy Name.

In Class A, Salineville Southern landed in the No. 4 spot. Following was Jamestown Greenview in fifth. Carey, Monroeville, North Lima South Range and Minster all shared sixth while Sidney Lehman was tenth.

Raiders dominate Dolphins, 31-21

MIAMI (AP) — Oakland Coach John Madden finally found out what it's like to win a National Football League season opener. But injuries have cooled his excitement over the Raiders' convincing 31-21 conquest of the Miami Dolphins.

Madden apparently lost defensive tackle Kelvin Korver for the season with knee ligament damage in Monday night's victory. Oakland's first opening success in six years. A team spokesman also said fullback Marv Hubbard was probably lost for three weeks with a shoulder injury.

On the bright side was a defensive effort that thoroughly dominated Miami in the first half and quarterback Ken Stabler's expert dissecting of a Dolphin defense, a defense noticeably missing injured veterans Nick Buoniconti, Dick Anderson and Manny Fernandez.

"We got off to a good jump .. then in the second half, it seemed something would always happen to give Miami a little lift," said Madden after breaking Miami's 31-game winning streak at home.

"They proved they're still a fine team. They kept coming back at us," Madden said of the Dolphins, whose offense was without World Football League defectors Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick.

The Raiders jumped on top 17-0 on

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — First, victories over Michigan State and Penn State. Now North Carolina, a 34-7 loser to Maryland last week.

That's the situation facing Woody Hayes Saturday. But the Ohio State football coach is unfurled over a letdown by his Buckeyes.

"Not when they have a mean, old coach," he reminded newsmen Monday.

"Yes, it will be a problem, but I've been through letdowns before. I've had experience and our kids seem to listen better."

Council to postpone sewage project vote

No decision will be reached on the proposed city sewage system improvement system during Washington C.H. City Council's regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

Although Council members were expected to vote on continuing or abandoning the multi-million dollar renovation project, City Council chairman Ralph L. Cook said today no decision will be reached on Wednesday night.

"We're still awaiting additional information from the Chicago office of the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) on what the consequences would be if we don't go ahead with the project at this time," Cook said.

Cook said following last week's public meeting on the proposed sewer project that if the city was going to accept a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency offer for federal funding, a decision would have to be reached at the next regular City Council session.

The next phase of the city's participation in the project would be to submit an application for a $960,265.03 federal grant. The federal grant would finance the preparation of detailed engineering plans, begin the process for construction bids and to reimburse the city for previously incurred costs.

The city's share (25 per cent) of the federal grant would be $240,666.25.

The total project is estimated to cost $23.6 million. The cost would be paid through a 75 per cent reimbursement grant from the federal government and 25 per cent as the city's share.

Representatives of C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., of Worthington, the city's consulting engineering firm, have pointed out a new sewer rate schedule, to be adopted immediately, would generate a surplus of $1.5 million before 1980 when actual construction is scheduled to begin. With the $1.5 million being raised over a five-year period before 1980, the engineers have said the city would be required to

Memo would curb rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislators were sent a copy of a memo Monday by a state employees union which was said to place restrictions on state workers' discussions with the representatives.

William E. Garnes, area director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said the memo from the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation stated that "any complaints submitted to legislators in reference to MR (mental retardation) transfers will be considered gross insubordination and will be dealt with as such."

Al Dopking, a spokesman for the department, said the department's general office in Columbus was "totally unaware of any such memorandum. Nothing went out from the general office."

State layoffs continue to rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An additional 243 employees are being laid off from the Department of Natural Resources, bringing to 410 the total number of DNR workers furloughed within the last month, a department spokesman said Monday.

The most recent layoffs, effective Oct. 8, affect employees in 41 western and southern Ohio counties, the spokesman said.

"These layoffs are necessary because of the lack of personal service funds caused largely by a severe cut in the Department of Natural Resources' operating budget by the 111th General Assembly," director Robert Teeter explained.

Earlier this month, the department laid off 167 employees.

Vocational agriculture topic at Kiwanis meet

Vocational agriculture and Future Farmers of America programs were discussed at the regular weekly meeting of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club Monday night in the parlor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Charles Andrews, vocational agriculture instructor at Miami Trace High School, and Miami Trace High School students Ken Moon and Beth Jenkins presented the program.

Andrews explained the local, state and national levels of Future Farmers of America. The FFA chapter at Miami Trace High School is currently sixth of 330 chapters in Ohio and received the national gold emblem award.

In the vocational agriculture program at Miami Trace High School, Andrews said instructors attempt to teach more than just farming. Students can enroll in vocational agriculture and college preparatory courses at the same time. He said each student enrolling in vocational agriculture has a different need to be met and the teaching is adjusted to try to fit these needs.

He stated that the freshman vocational agriculture year consists of two periods per day of courses concerning introduction to agriculture, basic animal science, carpentry and mechanics skills, basic plant life and agronomy. A series of semester subjects are offered beyond the freshman year.

Andrews said there are presently 18 girls in the vocational agriculture program at Miami Trace High School.

The program was concluded with a slide presentation covering all facets of farming and FFA programs.

The meeting was conducted by club president Guy M. Foster. Mike Campbell arranged the program.

Guests were Tim Mossbarger with his father, Tom Mossbarger, and Steve Hawkins, from Ohio State University, a student teacher in the vocational agriculture department at Miami Trace High School. Interclub members were present the Downtown Kiwanis club in Columbus.

Foster announced that the next dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club will be held at 6:15 p.m. Monday, Sept. 29 in the Terrace Lounge.

Bakeries named in price-fix suit

noncompetitive bids to the school districts, a violation of federal and state law.

Gravelle said about 20 area school districts buy bread from the three bakeries. The other districts decided not to join the suit as plaintiffs, but would share damage awards if the case is won.

The complaint seeks damages under federal law of triple any alleged overpayments for bread products and under state law of double any alleged overpayments.

The Cincinnati school system purchases about $200,000 a year in bread products.

The attorney general's office entered the case a year ago when investigators found a pattern in bread prices paid by school districts, Gravelle said.

The Cincinnati Board of Education had to commit $5,000 to join the case, with the fee going toward court costs. If the case is won, the defendants would have to pay all costs.

Mexico gets new president

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The clamor of cowbells and rattle of wooden drums announced that Finance Minister Jose Lopez Portillo will be Mexico's next president.

Presidents are limited to one term, and the outgoing man usually picks his successor from the members of his cabinet. The party lets a group of peasants or a union make the announcement, the procedure followed Monday.

Political observers expect Lopez Portillo to continue Echeverria's drive for economic independence from the United States, more nationalization of private businesses and higher taxes on the rich and middle class to finance rural projects.

Labor gets chance to manage

NEW YORK (AP) — The gripe of the disgruntled worker is as familiar a sound as the factory whistle: "If only I ran this place, things would be a lot different."

It's an ancient gripe that predates industrial society and probably written history as well, but the management response is new: "Okay, buddy, let's see what you can do."

Throughout the industrial world today management and labor are experimenting with various concepts and techniques designed to enlarge the area in which they can cooperate.

To date, the idea of joint management has been carried a lot further in Europe than in the United States. Six nations there require labor representation on the boards of major companies.

American unions aren't sure they want board representation. Perhaps better organized than their European counterparts, they feel able to accomplish just as much under existing arrangements. To join boards, some union officials fear, is to compromise their effectiveness.

In many companies workers and management are cooperating in so-called job enrichment programs whose goals are to improve working conditions and reduce costs.

To some extent, the assembly line is suspect. Various companies are testing substitutes, such as cluster assembly, in which groups of workers perform not one specific chore but are allowed to exercise skills and judgment by constructing entire units.

Profs. Edward Lawler and Stanley

Seashore of the University of Michigan are in the midst of a three-year, on-the-job study of the possibilities and implications of involving lower level workers in management decisions.

They report that all the experiments, conducted at various sites, show "some indication of improved performance for the organization and the people in it." Later this year they will have more conclusive results.

One of these experiments, they state, already has shown promising results. It began late in 1973, involving workers and management of the Rushton Mining Co., Rushton, Pa. Prof. Eric Trist of the University of Pennsylvania, was consultant.

The experiment began with establishment of a joint steering committee composed of representatives of the United Mine Workers and management. An experimental work group of 27 volunteers was set up from the regular work force, nine to a shift.

All the workers were put on top pay, and all were trained to rotate to any job on the team. Each shift foreman had sole responsibility for the safety of the crew, and responsibility for coal production rested with the crew itself.

Grievances also were agreed to be the responsibility of the crew, and during the experiment workers had no recourse to either a foreman or the mine's grievance committee.

The researchers found "exciting" changes began to take place.

The experimental group, the Michigan researchers say, boasts lower supply costs, higher production rates, lower absenteeism, lower turnover, a record low accident rate and the lowest number of safety violations in the mine's history.

Senate eyes intelligence

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence agencies ignored a presidential decision to revoke the so-called Huston Plan authorizing illegal and unconstitutional methods of gathering domestic intelligence, the chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee said today.

"The decision of the President seemed to matter little," Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho said. The CIA, FBI and other intelligence agencies "continued the very practices for which they had sought presidential authority" in the Huston Plan, Church

State officials ready testimony

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Five top-elected state officials have been invited to testify Thursday before the Indiana House subcommittee on executive reorganization.

Gov. Otis R. Bowen is sending an executive assistant, Raymond W. Rizzo. Others invited are Lt. Gov. Robert D. Orr, Secretary of State Larry A. Conrad, Treasurer Jack L. New, Atty. Gen. Theodore L. Sendak, Auditor Mary Currie and School Supt. Harold H. Negley.

The subcommittee is considering proposals to revamp state government into about 20 cabinet-type agencies.

Indiana facing budget problems

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — State Budget Director Edison Thuma warns that state general fund spending could exceed revenues by $150 million this fiscal year.

Thuma said Monday staggering welfare costs are the big problem and predicted the 1976 legislature will face a headache in trying to produce a balanced budget.

Property tax distribution set

INDIANAPOLIS — Marion, Lake and Allen counties are getting the lion's share of a $19 million distribution from the Property Tax Replacement Fund.

Gov. Otis Bowen announced the distribution Monday. It's the second 15 per cent advance on the November allotment.

Marion County gets nearly $3.6 million, Lake $2.7 million and Allen $1.1 million. No other county receives more than $1 million.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARbutt
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, gang, time for the biannual Fearless Forecast in which we predict which of the 26 regularly-scheduled new series on television will prosper or poop out.

As in past years, the Forecast is conducted without reference to tea leaves, or their equivalent, the Nielsen ratings. All of it is, as Quasimodo might say, just a hunch. Here then, the Forecast:

SATURDAY — Howard Cosell, the Mouth that Roared, got off to a tame start with his live variety show. But it has promise and will do at least a season. Not so "Matt Helm." "Doc" also will turn his head, cough and expire shortly.

SUNDAY — "Swiss Family Robinson" will again be shipwrecked — or is landwrecked as the case may be — by January. "Family Holvak" will be similarly uprooted. "Bronk" may solve crimes, but he'll be gunned down by year's end. "Three for the Road," on the other hand, will pick up strength and wander about for at least a year.

MONDAY — "Barbary Coast" will soon leave San Francisco for the San Andreas Fault, but "Phyllis" might escape the Big Shake for a year. But only a year. "The Invisible Man," of course, hasn't a ghost of a chance.

TUESDAY — "Welcome Back, Kotter" is picking up script strength and will graduate to another season. "Joe and Sons" will last as long as Jerry Stiller is featured in it. "Switch" gets maybe a season, but "Beacon Hill," which started on the top, will be at the bottom by January, its characters more jumbled than now. "Joe Forrester," meanwhile, will pound the pavements into a second season.

WEDNESDAY — "When Things Were Rotten" will get Sherwood Forest defoliated, but it'll take a season. "Starsky and Hutch" — yeah. Half a season. "Kate McShane" will lose her final case by midyear at about the same time "Doctor's Hospital" is closed.

THURSDAY — "On the Rocks" will pound its way to a second term, making big jokes out of little ones. "The Montefuscos" will be out of pasta by January, while the liberation of "Fay" will continue for at least a year.

"Ellery Queen" also will last a year, but "Medical Story" will be DOA by mid-season, despite intensive efforts at script-to-mouth resuscitation.

FRIDAY — "Mobile One," about a TV reporter, probably will get the Big Story — about its cancellation — from the January newspapers. "Big Eddie," about an ex-gambler, may last a year if CBS lets Sheldon Leonard associate more with the spirit of Damon Runyon. If not, we make book this show won't even place in the mid-season Futility.

We end the Fearless Forecast with a reminder to stay tuned for the big show ... life is only the station break.

UMW grievance speedup sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — An industry union committee trying to find ways to speed up the processes for handling coal miners' grievances will hold public hearings soon.

Formation of the study committee came after a recent month-long wildcat strike that began in protest to the slow handling of complaints filed by United Mine Workers members.

UMW Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick said Monday he had spent the weekend meeting with officials of the Charleston, W. Va.-based District 17 to begin preparations for the hearings which will be held in that district where the recent strike was spawned.

"The problems rank and file miners are having getting grievances settled quickly, at the mine site, are very real," he said, "and it's long past time that everyone concerned took a long, hard look at them."

Patrick said the industry-union commission will examine all areas in which miners' grievances are not being settled and present its findings to both the Bituminous Coal Operators Association and U.S. District Court judges in the area.

Serving on the commission with Patrick are UMW International Executive Board Members Gene Mitchell of District 12 in Illinois and Nick DeVine of District 5 in Western Pennsylvania.

It is said that every weapon devised by the wit of man sooner or later leads to an effective counter-weapon that acts as an equalizer. I don't know whether this is literally true or not, but I do know there are many situations that arise in bridge where the equivalent principle applies.

This deal occurred in a team of four match. At the first table, West led a heart. East took dummy's queen with the king and returned a heart to the ace.

Swollen Glands: Needless Fear

I worry because my 9-year-old son keeps getting attacks of swollen glands in the neck. The thought that terrifies me is that this might be an early warning of leukemia, or trouble like that.

Mrs. H. B., Ohio

Dear Mrs. B.:
Physicians are aware of the concern that mothers have about glands in the neck.

Anxiety about it is rampant, mostly because the real meaning of glands is not understood.

There are, perhaps, a thousand glands (lymph nodes), in the entire body. These vary in size, from tiny, barely perceptible ones to grape size.

A general examination and a study of the blood can immediately put your mind at ease. It is pointless to be in fear of a nonexistent condition. Your anxiety, before long, will be transmitted to your son. Then the entire family pays a penalty for unnecessary fear.

24 Chillicothe patients face transfers

CHILlicothe, Ohio (AP) — The 24 patients now at the Chillicothe Treatment and Research Center will be transferred Tuesday and Wednesday to the Junction City Treatment Center.

The transfer was scheduled for Sept. 5 but was delayed when patients went to court to prevent the move. A federal court at Toledo granted the state's request to make the move.

The Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation said the center here will be closed following the transfer and the 23 employees assigned to other facilities or laid off.

The center now has a staff of 25, including a psychiatrist and a social worker on loan from the Junction City facility. They will return to Junction City when the transfer is completed.

The center is housed in a building on the grounds of the Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

CCI plans to use the building for inmate housing.

The treatment center opened here in 1967 to treat emotionally and mentally disturbed felons from Ohio prisons.

When the mental health and retardation agency was separated from the state corrections department about four years ago the treatment facility was assigned to the new agency.

Name hospital chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A. Robert Crawford Jr., 46, a veteran of 19 years in hospital administration, has been named superintendent of Tiffin State Hospital, effective Oct. 6.

Stowe House in Cincinnati, Ohio, the home of Harriet Beecher Stowe's father, is now a museum of Negro history.

The same contract was defeated at the second table after a heart lead by West and a heart return by East to dummy's ace. Again declarer played a low club to the ten, but here West allowed South's ten to win the trick! As a result of this unusual play, declarer could not run dummy's clubs and wound up going down two.

Both declarers were very much on their toes in playing the clubs as they did. They realized that their best chance for the contract was to find East with the Q-x or J-x of clubs, in which case they would score five club tricks after losing the ten to West's jack or queen.

The second declarer suffered a considerable setback by running into unusually tight defense. At this table West found the right counter-weapon to resist South's method of attack. West sacrificed a club trick by refusing to win the ten, but he got back three tricks in exchange.

In Focus

by Charlie Pensyl

So what's new? There's so much new we can only touch on a fraction of the stuff. First, there's the Cibachrome process for making color prints. Last week at our CKFN session we had a new movie on how to make color prints by the Cibachrome process. The simplicity of the process and the quality of the product will make Cibachrome popular for all of us who have enlargers and have wished to make color prints. You see, there's no messing with a negative; you make the print directly from your slide.

Then there are some new cameras that you should tune in on if you want to get into SLR photography but don't have three hundred bucks to invest for the basic camera. Now, for slightly over a hundred and fifty you're in business with a good quality camera and lens.

This will be a big year for super eight sound movies. In fact, the Cibachrome film we mentioned above was on super eight sound film (the first commercial film we'd seen on super eight) and the quality was quite good. Wouldn't your own home movies with sound be fun?

For those who love to travel, or just love travel pictures, Kodak has a book, published in England, which contains more than 400 exceptional color illustrations of scenes from 15 countries all over the world. THE TRAVELERS' BOOK OF COLOUR PHOTOGRAPHY is a book you'll surely want for your collection. The price won't hurt you, either.

Another book that many have been inquiring about is SPOTLIGHT ON THE BILDERBERGERS and we just got our first shipment in of this popular paperback. Published within the last few months, it tells of the Bilderberg meetings from the first, in May of 1954, at Oosterbeek, Netherlands, up to the April 25-27, 1975 session as Cesme, Turkey. It lists the names of all participants and has pictures and stories. Most interesting! If you think you know what's going on in the world, and you haven't read this book; rethink.

Oh, yes, it's time to get ready to photograph the wild fall colors. Every year, about this time we tell you that the film of choice for fall colors is AGFAchrome. That is still the case. If you've never used AGFAchrome for fall, get with it this year.

Another receives probation

Judge sentences drug defendants

Two persons arrested in June for illicit drug trafficking were sentenced Tuesday morning in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Due to information obtained from probation reports and the statements of another drug defendant at sentencing Monday, one received probation while the other was sentenced to the maximum prison term.

Robert A. Beedy, 21, of 1126 E. Temple St., had pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana for sale and was placed on five years probation by Judge Evelyn W. Coffman.

A charge of sale of the drug was dismissed by the prosecution at the time Beedy entered his guilty plea.

Judge Coffman cited Beedy's "full disclosure and cooperation" as primary evidence of his desire to rehabilitate himself.

Joseph W. Seymour, 19, of 427 Peddicord Ave., who was sentenced Monday also received leniency for cooperating with law-enforcement officers and the court.

Arrested in connection with the same incidents as Robert T. Lutz, 19, of 523 E. Temple St., Seymour made statements at his sentencing which influenced the judge concerning Lutz, who was found guilty by a jury last month.

Although defense attorney Andrew Dennison of Cincinnati spoke in Lutz's behalf, Judge Coffman imposed the maximum sentence for sale of marijuana, 20 to 40 years in prison.

Dennison pointed out that Lutz was currently enrolled as a junior at Morehead (Ky.) State University. He said the defendant's efforts to continue his education was evidence of his desire to become a responsible member of the community. He added that Lutz had been approached by the state narcotics agent to whom he sold marijuana, and had not sought out a buyer for the substance. He also said Lutz had no previous arrest record.

Assistant county prosecuting attorney John H. Roszmann, representing the state, indicated that information supplied by Seymour at the sentencing had shown that the sale was not an isolated case. He said that he was not sure that Lutz would be rehabilitated by probation since the defendant had not indicated any change in his attitude toward crimes involving marijuana.

Judge Coffman stated that she did not feel that the defendant's college pursuits would deter him from the "drug scene." She said many colleges are infested with drugs, and according to her reports, Morehead State University was one of them.

She also noted that, according to Seymour, Lutz had "smoked marijuana at the home of a friend and neighbor."

In light of these reports, she said it appeared that the defendant was not the victim of an isolated incident, but rather that he had a history of involvement in drugs.

She therefore sentenced him to one year in jail for possession of marijuana, 10 to 20 years for possession for sale, and 20 to 40 years for sale of the drug. All three terms are to run concurrently.

In conjunction with Dennison's request that she keep in mind an appeal's court ruling which was found the sentence for sale of marijuana cruel and unusual punishment, she said the penalty in Ohio is still 20 to 40 years and that she was sentencing under the present code.

She also noted that a recent bill passed by the Ohio legislature has changed the penalties for crimes relating to marijuana, but the new law does not go into effect until after this year.

At that time, the sentence will be modified, but not until then, she said.

She denied a request from defense counsel for a stay of execution pending an appeal.

Finding the defendant indigent, she appointed Dennison to represent Lutz during the course of an appeal.

Hurricane brings gas cutbacks

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Natural gas supplies to industrial customers in at least three states have been cut back because of Hurricane Eloise, according to officials of Tenneco, Inc., of Houston, Tex.

Tenneco supplies gas to customers in several states, including Kentucky, Ohio and Tennessee.

A spokesman said Tenneco was forced to shut down its offshore wells because of the hurricane, and had asked several of its larger customers and subsidiaries to voluntarily cut back on their gas supplies.

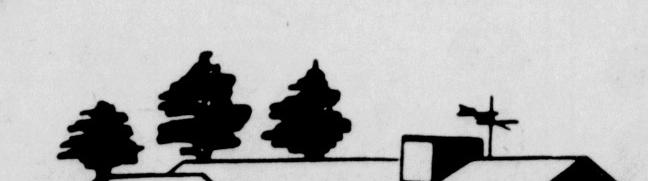

In Kentucky, Inland Gas Co. of Ashland said it had cut back supplies to its industrial customers by 22 per cent.

MONDAY — A 16-year-old Bloomingburg boy, probation violation and a 14-year-old Washington C.H. boy, probation violation.

Seek ruling on disability

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William J. Brown urged the U.S. Supreme Court on Monday to rule that disability income insurance programs that exclude pregnancy-related disabilities discriminate against women.

"The State of Ohio is very interested in the outcome of this case because we have several cases pending in our office that raise the same issue," Brown said.

Brown encouraged the court to decide the issue in favor of women. He said the state employee disability income protection plan does cover pregnancy-related disabilities.

Brown commented in the case of Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. vs. Wetzel in which a Pennsylvania woman sued her insurance company for discrimination and won in two lower courts.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas Kleppe's past silence on conservation and environmental issues may prove to be the main hurdle facing the North Dakota millionaire as he seeks confirmation as interior secretary.

Those opposed to Kleppe's nomination have asked whether his experience as a wax manufacturer, a politician and as head of the Small Business Administration qualify him to take over the Interior Department.

Representatives of many environmental protection groups expressed acute disappointment when President Ford nominated the 56-year-old Kleppe to head a department with heavy impact on the environment.

In a large sense, Kleppe faces the opposite problem encountered by his immediate predecessor, former Wyoming Gov. Stanley K. Hathaway. In a grueling set of hearings, Hathaway was forced to defend his extensive and controversial record on environmental and conservation issues.

Hathaway quit after less than six weeks on the job, and friends blamed the strain of the hearings for mental pressures that led to his hospitalization and resignation.

Kleppe, unlike Hathaway, is widely regarded as having no public environmental or conservation views to defend.

"We are very disappointed that the President hasn't nominated someone with a more distinguished record in the field," said Charles Clusen, spokesman for the Sierra Club.

But Sen. Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., whose Senate seat Kleppe failed to win, says Kleppe is qualified.

Kleppe was appointed to the SBA post by President Richard M. Nixon in 1970 after Kleppe failed the second time to beat Burdick.

A former mayor of Bisarck, N.D., Kleppe served in the House of Representatives from 1964 to 1970. He was never a member of the House Interior Committee.

Secrecy fight continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration, fighting a dual battle with Congress over secrecy, is defying congressional subpoenas for documents on U.S. intelligence operations and the Arab boycott against Israel.

House Intelligence Committee Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said Monday "all my indications are" that Ford will not turn over subpoenaed documents to the committee.

Ford cut off both documents and witnesses to the committee two weeks ago after it disclosed that U.S. intelligence monitored Egyptian communications before the 1973 Mideast war.

On the second front, Secretary of Commerce Rogers C. B. Morton refused Monday to comply with a House subcommittee's subpoena for names of U.S. companies involved in the Arab boycott against Israel.

Driver hurt, charged after city accident

A Fayette County woman was injured and cited for driving left of center when she collided with two parked cars and a Dayton Power and Light Co. utility pole at 11:27 p.m. Monday, while traveling south on Oakland Avenue near the Dayton Avenue intersection.

Washington C.H. Police Lt. Tony Wilson levied the traffic charge against Delores J. Brown, 37, of 2058 Greenfield-Sabina Road, when she struck parked cars belonging to Nova Stickley, 623 W. Oakland Ave., and Everett Shasteen, 633 Oakland Ave., and then continued crashing into the

The Brown auto was severely damaged in the wreck and the driver was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by police after claiming injury. She was treated for bruises sustained to her back, forehead and leg and released. The Stickley auto was also severely damaged according to police estimates and the Shasteen auto, moderately damaged.

Ms. Brown told police an oncoming auto had forced her off course and into the parked vehicles.

Two larcenies checked

Two larcenies and an incident of malicious destruction were reported by the Washington C.H. Police Department today. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department is presently investigating a burglary at the Hockman Grain Co.

The Hockman Grain Co. in Madison Mills was entered through an unlocked window sometime between Sunday and Monday, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported today. Stolen was a set of scales and a radio which broadcasts only a weather band. Investigation is continuing.

A citizens band radio belonging to Paul Spires, 1017 Briar Ave., was stolen from his truck between 9 p.m. Sunday and 12 p.m. Monday. Police valued the radio at $189.95 and reported the serial number as 750715.

A citizens band radio was also stolen from a van belonging to Frank Rhoades, Rt. 2, while the vehicle was parked in the 900 block of Briar Avenue sometime Sunday, police reported.

An antenna valued at $15 was broken off a car owned by Albert C. Heer, 628 S. Main St., between 9 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday, police stated.

Faulty alarm

A faulty smoke alarm brought Washington C.H. firemen to the Court House Manor Nursing Home, 250 Glenn Ave., at 2:48 p.m. Monday.

Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen reported the alarm system was presently under repair.
